

COMPROMISE ON FLEXIBLE CLAUSE IN TARIFF BILL IS ASSAILED IN HOUSE

It Will Give Real Power to Fix Rates to Commission Appointed by President, Beck Asserts.

HOOVER SATISFIED WITH ADJUSTMENT

Smoot Presents Conference Report to Senate Where Debate, Opening Tomorrow, Is Expected to Last a Week.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, May 26.—The new compromise proposal on the flexible tariff provision was attacked in the House today by Representative Beck (Rep.), Pennsylvania, who described it as "worse than the original House proposal."

"If Congress is relinquishing its taxing power, it is better to let the President, who is elected, than to the Tariff Commission, which is not elected," he said.

Asserting that the power of taxation was the greatest privilege held by Congress, he said that the compromise was adopted, Congress could set the maximum and minimum limits for tariff rates, but the "real tax would be set by the commission, which the President appoints and can remove."

The Senate today called on the Secretary of State to supply it with a list of nations on record protesting against the pending tariff bill.

Debate Opens Tomorrow. The supplemental conference report on the tariff bill, including the compromise flexible provision, was submitted to the Senate today, by Senator Smoot, chairman of the Senate conferees. It will be taken up tomorrow and debated at least the remainder of the week.

Republican leaders reiterated meanwhile that President Hoover approved the flexible provision and that Attorney-General Mitchell regarded it as impregnable against attack on constitutional grounds.

With elimination of the debenture, vigorously opposed by the administration, and provision for a flexible clause satisfactory to the President, the conferees agreed on the bill. Mr. Hoover would sign the bill if sent to him as it now stands.

Democrats and Republican Independents formulated plans to oppose the report, particularly that part relating to the flexible provision and elimination of the debenture amendment. They have chosen two principal points of attack.

The first is a contention that the plan for emergency rate changes worked out by the conference Committee, is unconstitutional. The plan authorizes the Tariff Commission to recommend increases or decreases within a limit of 50 per cent, which would become effective at the expiration of 60 days, unless put into operation sooner by the President, specifically disapproved by him.

The leaders of the coalition consider that this is an unlawful delegation of the taxing power. Over the week-end there were definite indications that this plan was unsatisfactory to President Hoover.

Hoover Approves Plan. However, when Mr. Hoover returned from his fishing preserve in the Blue Ridge Mountains late yesterday he immediately began a series of conferences which resulted in an announcement that he had been informed as to the exact provisions of the compromise and that it had his approval.

The Chief Executive was said by those who discussed the situation with him to have been hearty in his approbation, and that his mental misunderstanding, which arose from a report of the agreement that was telephoned to him at his mountain camp, had been removed.

Under existing law, the President is empowered to order changes in the tariff rates. Upon the recommendations of the Commission, but they cannot become effective without his approval.

The conference plan, in addition to setting a time limit for unfavorable presidential action, broadens the basis of any action by the commission to include, not only production costs, as at present, but in value and competitive conditions. This provision met the particular approval of the President as he considered that it would remove unnecessary delay in the commission's deliberations.

The second point of attack selected by the coalition, is that the conferees exceeded their authority in adjusting the rates on clocks, cherries, rayon, watches and cheese. Should this point of order be sustained the measure would be returned to conference and there is a division of opinion as to whether the entire bill or only the schedules in question, would be open to revision.

In a statement issued through the party National Committee, Senator Robinson of Arkansas, Democratic leader, contends the new flexible provision "constitutes a delegation of legislative authority which renders the same invalid."

GRAND NATIONAL BANK ROBBED OF $114,000 IN CASH AND BONDS

spending the staircase to the vault, he suddenly realized that the vault doors were open and articles from boxes were scattered on the floor.

As he turned to flee up the stairs, he said, he was seized by a man who pointed a revolver at him. Griggs related that he was bound, gagged and tied to a chair in the room with the porter, who remained until almost noon. Then, he said, he freed his left hand, drew a knife from his pocket, cut the bonds and made his way to a telephone, notifying police at 12:10 p. m.

The robbers apparently worked leisurely, using tools left by the workmen engaged in dismantling the vault, and selected a tier of boxes which included three used by tellers of the bank as overnight depositories for cash. After cutting through the rivets which held the iron sheet to the back of the tier, they drew out the boxes and emptied their contents on the floor.

Jewelry and Silver on Floor.

Apparently they took only cash, currency and gold and bonds, because jewelry and silver coins were found scattered on the floor. The one box which was opened from the front was that of Morris Barnholtz, former owner of Grand View Hotel, 3518 Washington boulevard, who told police he had placed $2900 in cash in the box Saturday. Barnholtz was required by police to furnish $50,000 bond pending a further investigation.

About 12 feet from the vault detectives found a hole in the wall leading to the boiler room of the Beers Hotel next door and were told that the opening had been made about three years ago by workmen engaged in installing steam pipes.

Chief of Police Gerke, who made a personal investigation, disclaimed the theory that the robbers entered through this hole when he discovered that it was coated with dust and that a policeman could not crawl through it without disturbing the dust. The hole had been blocked from the bank side with filling cabinets and cardboard boxes which had been moved away.

Police Guard Removed.

Chief Gerke related today that for several days since the vault door was moved, policemen had guarded the vault continuously, succeeding each other in three eight-hour shifts until last Thursday, when they were assigned to other duties after Clifford Herbert, cashier of the bank, notified Capt. Wetzel of Laclede Avenue Station that the removal had been interrupted and that the guard would not be needed temporarily.

Twelve officers and employees of the bank, including a private watchman employed by several firms in the neighborhood, have keys to the front door of the bank. Cashier Herbert, working in the new bank quarters, entered the bank at 11:15 a. m. yesterday to use the wash room but told police when he reappeared shortly after noon, that he had noticed nothing unusual.

Max Seufert, night watchman at the bank, said he left at 4:55 a. m., being relieved by the neighborhood watchman Patrick Hartnett, who remained in the bank until 11:15 a. m., when his tour of duty ended. Both men said nothing had been disturbed when they left.

President Mays explained today that five of the safe deposit boxes were used by tellers for keeping cash overnight and pointed out that two of these boxes had not been disturbed. He also explained that the department's record book lay on a desk in the vault, making it possible for the robbers to select the boxes they desired to loot.

List of Stolen Bonds. A list of stolen bonds was prepared by Mays for publication in newspaper advertisements as a warning to possible purchasers. It follows:

Twelve United Postoffice Corporation bonds, Nos. D397 to D400, inclusive, and M4593 to 4600, inclusive.

Ten Youngtown Sheet and Tube Co. bonds, Nos. 71171 to 71176, inclusive.

Ten International Machine Corporation bonds, Nos. 47252 to 47261, inclusive.

Ten St. Louis & San Francisco Railroad Co. bonds, Nos. M4461 to M4465, inclusive, and Nos. M51011, 51012, 51013, No. M51504, No. M54111.

Ten Shell Pipe Line Corporation bonds, No. 12449 to 12453, inclusive.

Six Continental Gas & Electric Corporation bonds, Nos. D4423 and D4424 and M39410 to M39413, inclusive.

Five Republic of El Salvador bonds, Nos. 681, 682, 683 and M4020 and 4021.

Five City of Berlin, Nos. 12923 to 12932, inclusive.

Five Commonwealth of Australia bonds, Nos. 12598 to 12702, inclusive.

Four Credit Alliance Corporation bonds, Nos. M1183 to M1186, inclusive.

Mays said he understood that Cashier Herbert had ordered the police guard withdrawn after Superintendent Mays was hired as night watchman a few days before the robbery. "It looks like somebody knew an awful lot about this," Mays remarked, but declined to amplify the comment.

In one of the bank's windows yesterday there was a display picturing a burglar in a bedroom while the occupants slept. Beneath was this: If the burglar should come tonight, be sure your precious possessions are safe. We can't think of a better protection for those valuables than one of our Safety Deposit Boxes. Today this window display was removed.

SUPREME COURT ADVANCES COMMUNITY PROPERTY SUITS

To Decide Whether Husband and Wife May File Reports Each Covering Half of Joint Income.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, May 26.—The Supreme Court today on motion of Government counsel advanced for hearing tax cases involving community property or property held by husbands and wives. The court will hear, Oct. 20, four cases from Washington, Texas, Louisiana and Arizona. They involve the question whether, under the community property laws of those states, the Government can require the husband to report all community income on his tax return, or whether the husband and wife are entitled, as lower courts have held, each to file returns covering one-half of such incomes.

The court announced it would decide the controversy on its merits, thus relieving the Circuit Court of Appeals of the necessity of passing on them.

EARTHQUAKE IN HAWAII

By the Associated Press. HILO, Hawaii, May 26.—A sharp earthquake shook Hilo at 3:15 o'clock last night. There was no damage. The Kilauea Volcano Observatory reported the quake, but no volcanic activity. The quake also was felt in the Kona district on the opposite side of the island.

ZEPPELIN BACK AT PERAMBUCO AFTER RIO VISIT

Moored to Mast to Prepare for Journey to U. S. — Flight From Capital of Brazil in 24 Hours.

By the Associated Press. PERAMBUCO, Brazil, May 26.—Ending a journey of nearly 2500 miles to Rio de Janeiro and back, the Graf Zeppelin at 9:10 a. m. today, was moored to its mast in this city to begin preparations for the flight to North America. The Zeppelin was made fast in slightly more than 24 hours after leaving the Campo das Afonso flying field in the capital of Brazil.

Even more persons witnessed the arrival here than were at the field when the dirigible landed from Seville, Spain, Thursday. The Government declared a holiday that everyone might view the Graf.

The great Zeppelin will leave here Wednesday for Havana. The hour of its departure has not as yet been made known. Its stay in Havana will be short, allowing only time enough to take on provisions. The dirigible will then fly over the Bahamas to Lakehurst, N. J. Dr. Eckener expects to be in Germany on June 2.

The Graf returned here after a courtesy call of one hour and a half at Rio de Janeiro.

Of the originally planned 18,000-mile trip, from Friedrichshafen to Seville, to Pernambuco, to Rio, to Perambuco, Havana, Lakehurst and Friedrichshafen, approximately 7750 miles have been completed.

Confusion Marks Dirigible's Visit to Brazilian Capital. The stay in Rio was not the most pleasant experience in the history of the Graf Zeppelin. Preceded by a quarrel over admission prices to the landing field other obstacles developed in the course of the night. Unfamiliarity of the Brazilian soldiery with their task in handling the unwieldy craft added to the confusion.

Dr. Eckener, master of the Graf, did not even leave the gondola of the ship, remaining there for a reception of various civic and Government officials, Germans resident in Brazil, and the Prince Louis Ferdinand, son of the German Emperor.

Dr. Eckener, who was in Rio for the occasion. The Graf, which left Perambuco at 11:55 p. m. Friday, arrived over the headlines outside the harbor at 1:30 a. m. Sunday, but after commencing with official Eckener decided to withhold landing until dawn.

With coming of the sunlight he started the ship past the crown of the famous Pao d'Assucar ("Sugar Loaf") mountain dominating the city, and over the bay to the Brazilian capital. The noise of the dirigible's motors brought thousands from their homes into the streets and onto roofs for a view of the craft, which at first was outlined in the sky by sunlight appearing from over the bay.

Band Plays German Anthem. Arriving over Campo das Afonso, the Graf descended from an altitude of 1600 feet and at 7:1 a. m. alighted the landing tables over the side of the gondola from a height of about 300 feet. At 7:30 a. m. as a band played the German national anthem the landing was completed.

Infantrymen held the ship steady, while Eckener received the cavalry detachments dashed here and there to keep the crowd away from the craft. Passengers landed, new passengers were taken on and a cargo of mail dropped and a new cargo added in the next few minutes while Eckener received the reception committee in the gondola.

At 9 a. m. the ship arose again, circled the field twice and sailed off toward Bahia and Pernambuco.

Perfect weather prevailed in contrast to the trip down, when much of the beautiful panorama afforded by passage down the Brazilian coast was spoiled by squalls and rain and hail. Due to weather conditions, there was so much uncertainty about the prospect of the Graf's landing at Rio that three of the passengers from Havana and Lakehurst, including W. B. Leeds, American millionaire, were sent Saturday by airplane from Rio to Perambuco, where they will embark aboard the Zeppelin Wednesday.

WONT REOPEN RICHMOND RACE SEGREGATION CASE

Supreme Court Refuses to Reconsider Virginia Ordinance It Held Unconstitutional.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, May 26.—Richmond, Va., failed in the Supreme Court today in its attempt to have the court reconsider its action in sustaining a decision holding invalid its race segregation ordinance.

The court declined to reopen the case.

The Circuit Court of Appeals held in its city ordinance prohibited Negroes from living in white neighborhoods, and white from living in Negro neighborhoods, and the decision was affirmed by the Supreme Court without hearing oral arguments.

Declaring the controversy of vital importance to Virginia, Richmond asserted the ordinance was a "virtually necessary exercise of police power in Virginia." The city contended it was aimed to promote the separation of the two races, which was stated to be the only solution of the racial problem.

$338,000 SPENT IN GRUNDY CAMPAIGN FOR RENOMINATION

Pennsylvania Senator Himself Contributed $291,000 of This Amount in Losing Fight.

By CHARLES G. ROSS. Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 26.—The expenditures in the recent Pennsylvania Republican primary campaign, to retain the seat he now holds by appointment, cost $338,000, exclusive of whatever sums may have been expended in 37 counties where the campaign was financed without aid from the central Grundy committee. Grundy testified that he contributed $291,000 out of his own pocket.

Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, the winning candidate for the senatorial nomination, testified to the personal expenditures or pledges of $10,541 and to the receipt of an additional $10,000 in contributions which he turned over to his campaign organization.

To Examine Vauchan. Davis said he didn't know how much was spent on his behalf by the Vauchan organization in Philadelphia or by the State-wide Davis-Brown campaign committee, which Samuel Vauchan was treasurer. The committee expects to hear Vauchan after he has had time to make up his report.

Francis H. Bohlen, law professor of the University of Pennsylvania, who was the candidate for the Senate on the wet, Bohlen-Phillips ticket, gave detailed figures showing an expenditure of $200,000 for the ticket, of which the National Association Against the Prohibition Amendment gave $100,000.

Grundy said that out of his total of $40,000 to $50,000 was spent in the city of Philadelphia, largely for the employment of "watchers" at the polls. A "substantial part" of the balance went for printing and newspaper advertising.

The committee sought to learn the philosophy which led "Old Joe" to spend out of his own funds a sum of $231,000 greater than six years' salary in the Senate and $100,000 more than the sum expended by the Senate in the Newberry case as a "dangerous to the perpetuity of a free Government."

Money, said Grundy in a discursive reply, didn't enter into the question at all. In a great state like Pennsylvania or Illinois it was proper, he thought, for a candidate to spend whatever amount he might find necessary to educate the voters, so that they would support the type of man best calculated to advance the welfare of the state.

Senator Dill observed that in the Grundy philosophy a man of moderate means would have no chance at all in Pennsylvania.

Grundy said that the fault was with the primary law itself. Dill replied to questions, Grundy said he was against any law placing a limit on primary campaign expenditures.

"You think that any such law would be illogical?" he was asked.

"Yes," was the reply. "What would be his view, he was asked, of a contribution of, say, $200,000 by the head of a public utility corporation subject to regulation by the Senate?" Grundy said such a thing would be "unfortunate."

"Do you not think?" pressed Senator Wagner, "that a candidate who accepted such a contribution would be unfit to hold public office?"

"He would be in an embarrassing position," answered Grundy.

"Would you not regard him as unworthy?" persisted Wagner, and the witness finally agreed that he would.

Wagner said he didn't want to be personal, but didn't the witness think that a candidate who was himself the head of a great interest seeking favors from the Government, and who spent large sums to get himself elected to office, was just as culpable as the candidate who took contributions from such an interest?

"Oh, I think so," said Grundy. "You are quite right."

"What would you think," asked Senator Nye, "of a law providing for the payment of campaign expenses by the State?"

"The more you keep the State and Federal Governments out of the affairs of the individual," retorted Grundy, "the better off we shall be. They are too far in there now."

After Secretary Davis had testified about his modest personal expenses, he was asked if he had been supported by the Vauchan machine of Philadelphia.

"I know of it as the Republican organization of Philadelphia," said Davis. The audience laughed.

There was Supporting Davis. "There is no doubt it was in your corner supporting you," asked Wagner.

"I was supported by the Republican organization," said Davis. Asked about his relations with Vauchan, the Secretary of Labor said that before entering the race he talked with Vauchan and that Vauchan he would support him. He had never talked to Vauchan about the money end of the campaign.

"You were familiar with the corruption of 1924," said Dill. "Did you take any steps to see that it should not be repeated?"

"I have always stood for fair elections," replied Davis. "Davis said he had no idea what was spent for the ticket which he headed."

Liquor Buying No Crime Court Holds

him for making the purchase. However that may be, it is fair to assume, that Congress, when it came to pass the prohibition act, knew this history, and acting in the light of it, deliberately and designedly unconditionally imposed upon the purchaser of liquor for beverage purposes any criminal liability.

No New Law to Cover Case.

"If law were needed to support this view of the matter, it would be found in the fact conceded by the Government's brief that during the entire life of the National Prohibition act, a period of 10 years, the executive departments charged with the administration and enforcement of the act have uniformly construed it as not including the purchaser in a case like the present; no prosecution until the present one has ever been undertaken under a different theory; and Congress, of course well aware of this construction and practice, has significantly left the law in its original form. It follows, that since the indictment charges no offense under Section 6, it was properly quashed."

Following announcement of the decision, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Lowman, in charge of the prohibition enforcement, said the prohibition unit has always taken the attitude sustained by the court. Attorney-General Mitchell selected the Farrar case as a test in an attempt to solve several troublesome questions. The United States District Court quashed the indictment, holding it no offense under the prohibition act to purchase liquor from a bootlegger.

The Government took the position in the Supreme Court that all purchases of liquor, except under a permit or a physician's prescription, were illegal.

Counsel for Farrar argued that the permits which the Government insisted were necessary to legalize the purchase of liquor were issued only to manufacturers and others authorized to withdraw liquor and alcohol for other than beverage purposes, and did not apply to purchasers from bootleggers.

Counsel also pointed out that while the prohibition amendment was being framed in Congress unsuccessful efforts were made to penalize purchasers and that Senator Sheppard of Texas, one of the proponents of the prohibition amendment, recognized that it did not cover purchases of liquor from bootleggers and had pending a bill to make such purchases illegal.

Norris Case From New York. The second case was that of Alfred E. Norris, New York banker, who bought liquor from a Philadelphia bootlegger. The court said since Norris had pleaded nolo contendere virtually a plea of guilty, his conviction must be sustained.

During oral argument it developed that Norris had entered the plea of nolo contendere. Members of the court suggested then that, under the circumstances, it might be impossible for the court to decide the issue on its merits. The Government urged the court to brush aside technicalities and help it in prohibition enforcement with a ruling removing all doubt.

Justice Sutherland, who wrote the opinion for the court, said he did not indicate what his opinion would be if the case were open for decision on its merits. The court declined to state whether a purchaser in ordering, knowing transportation was involved, was guilty of conspiracy.

Norris was indicted on a charge of conspiring with Joel D. Karger of Philadelphia to violate the prohibition law. The District Court at Philadelphia held Norris guilty of conspiracy, but the Circuit Court of Appeals set aside the conviction, holding the transportation incident to delivery was a mere incident of the sale, and that delivery to the purchaser does not subject the purchaser and seller to position," answered Grundy. "Would you not regard him as unworthy?" persisted Wagner, and the witness finally agreed that he would.

Wagner said he didn't want to be personal, but didn't the witness think that a candidate who was himself the head of a great interest seeking favors from the Government, and who spent large sums to get himself elected to office, was just as culpable as the candidate who took contributions from such an interest?

"Oh, I think so," said Grundy. "You are quite right."

"What would you think," asked Senator Nye, "of a law providing for the payment of campaign expenses by the State?"

"The more you keep the State and Federal Governments out of the affairs of the individual," retorted Grundy, "the better off we shall be. They are too far in there now."

FAVORS PLUTO AS NAME OF NEW-FOUND PLANET

Staff of Lowell Observatory Recommends It to Astronomical Societies.

By the Associated Press.
FLAGSTAFF, Ariz., May 26.—Pluto is the name selected by officers of Lowell Observatory here for the recently discovered trans-Neptunian body previously designated as Planet X.
Roger Lowell Putnam, trustee of the observatory and nephew of the late Dr. Percival Lowell, who predicted the existence of the planet 16 years before it actually was seen, announced that the name Pluto was chosen after a host of suggested names had been narrowed down to three—Minerva, Pluto and Cronus.

The name has been presented to the American Astronomical Society and the Royal Astronomical Society, Putnam said.
"After narrowing our choice of names to three," Putnam said, "we experienced some difficulty in reaching a decision as to which of the suggested Roman deities most fittingly described the new planet. Since its discovery was so preeminently a triumph of reasoning, Minerva, the Goddess of Wisdom, would have been our choice had not her name for so many years been borne by an asteroid.
"Cronus, the son of Uranus and the father of Neptune, also would have been appropriate, but we finally agreed on Pluto, God of the Regions of Darkness, as most symbolic of the distant unknown region where Planet X holds sway. Jupiter and Neptune already are in the heavens, and it seems appropriate that Pluto, the third brother, also should have a place.
"All planets have symbols which frequently are used instead of their whole name, and Pluto lends itself easily to the monogram 'P. L.' the initials of Percival Lowell, and will be a fitting memorial to him."

JUDGE DEMANDS A CLEAN-UP IN MADISON COUNTY

Gambling Houses and Dog Racing Tracks "Mecca for Suckers and Yokels," Bernreuter Tells Jury.

A clean-up of the gambling houses and dog-racing tracks in Madison County, described as "a mecca for suckers and yokels from the surrounding cities," was ordered by Circuit Judge Louis Bernreuter in re-opening the May term grand jury at Edwardsville today.

Judge Bernreuter did not specifically mention the Madison and Kingshighway Kennel Clubs, which operate nightly. He appealed to the press to assist in "educating the people to lend the officers of the law a helping hand," and pointed out that it is "no disgrace to give information about law violation to the State's Attorney."

Dog Track Is Unlawful.

"Running of a dog track is an unlawful act against the people of Illinois," the court said, "and the men who operate one are subject to indictments for conspiracy." The First Appellate Court of Illinois, sitting at Chicago, recently ruled that betting on the dogs is a violation of the gaming law. State's Attorney Bohm made no comment on the instructions.
Madison is one of several counties in the judicial circuit handled by Judges Bernreuter, Henry Miller and Jesse R. Brown. Judge Brown is the only president of Madison County.
In charging the grand jury Judge Bernreuter said:

"I wish to call your attention to a few special matters. For many years the southwestern part of Madison County has been infested with gambling houses and other questionable resorts.
"These places are much more difficult to deal with than isolated law violations. These resorts have become more firmly rooted from year to year. It is very difficult to obtain witnesses who are willing to testify against the owners of these places on account of the friendship built up in their respective neighborhoods.
"This part of your county, which might be compared with the front yard of a dwelling, has become a mecca for suckers and yokels from the surrounding cities, who believe in luck and the sure thing of the other man's game.
"There is no other county in the State that has so many premises, future than Madison County, but look what you have on display in your show windows fronting St. Louis.
"I have had several conferences with your State's Attorney concerning these problems since he went into office. I understand his difficulty. In spite of the many accusations, I still have faith in him. He has not been idle.
"I want this grand jury to feel its full responsibility and give the people of this county the best of service. They are cleaning up St. Clair County. Now don't let Madison County fall behind. Let's make a real beginning. The courts have always extended protection to infants, to feeble-minded, drunkards and dupes. For that reason we have a statute under which one who loses money at gaming may bring suit and get it back. It is, therefore, our duty here and now to stop the exploitation of our mediocre citizenship in the big gambling institutions referred to.
"By the way, the farmers of your county don't bite. It is the believer in luck from the city who forgets his time payments and runs over to the bright lights of your county and drops his roll.
"More Attention to Tax-Dodgers.
"Another matter that should have more attention is tax-dodging. Many so-called respectable people are shocked when Bill Jones goes to the dog races, bottles and takes a drink in the dark. Many of this class accuse the Sheriff and State's Attorney of accepting bribes, but have lapses of memory when the assessor comes around. Why is local estate carrying such a heavy load of taxes? It is because millions of dollars of personal property are not taxed.
"Judge Miller, whose home is in Belleville, last week precipitated a grand jury investigation into charges that some St. Clair County officials were being bribed by rival dog track owners to prevent operation of the Cahokia track. No indictments were returned. A recommendation was made that George Dowell, an attorney representing a dog track officer, be dealt with in any manner the court sees fit. Dowell obtained an injunction in the controversy from a Union County court, using a letter to which Judge Miller's name had been signed. Miller told reporters his brother, former Congressman E. E. Miller of East St. Louis, had written the name without authorization. The latter could not be found for service of a summons.
"University City School Festival.
"Approximately 2000 students of University City grade schools participated in the play day exercises at Pershing Field today. The exercises were scheduled for last Friday, but postponed because of the weather."

SAILOR STRUCK BY OFFICER WINS $12,000 DAMAGE CLAIM

Supreme Court Upholds Decision That Seaman Cannot Be Assaulted With Impunity.

WASHINGTON, May 24.—The days of the iron fist on shipboard appear to be passing. Steamship companies today were held liable by the Supreme Court for assaults committed on seamen by petty officers.

The decision was in a case brought from New York City by the Alpha Steamship Corporation to set aside a judgment obtained by Robert Cain, a seaman, for injuries suffered in an attack by an officer of the steamer Alpha. Cain was late in coming on watch. The second assistant engineer struck him with a monkey wrench. He obtained a judgment for $12,000 against the steamship company. The lower court took the view that the days had passed when ship officers could assault seamen with impunity. The steamship company denied responsibility for the assault by a subordinate officer, contending it was a brawl common among seamen.

NIKER PROVES TO BE DRIVER'S BROTHER, PARTED IN 1902

H. C. Fields, Salt Lake City, Picks Up "Stranger" on Road Near Ogden, Utah.

By the Associated Press.
RENO, Nev., May 26.—H. C. Fields of Salt Lake City, en route to Oakland by automobile, picked up a hitch hiker near Ogden, Utah, Saturday. The two continued to Reno, and eventually Fields asked his guest: "What part of the country are you from?"

"That's funny," said Fields. "I was born there myself. My name's Fields."
His guest looked at him sharply. "Not Harry Fields?"

"That's it," Fields confirmed. Whereupon his guest said, "Don't you know me? I'm Wayne Fields." The brothers had parted in 1902 and had not seen one another since that time. After the war they had lost trace of each other.

Hawley-Smoot Tariff Bill Called Hoover Regime's Greatest Blunder

More Views Expressed by Industrial Leaders on the Effect of Measure on Foreign Trade.

By Leased Wire from the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May 25.—The New York World has received further replies from leading economists and industrialists solicited for their opinions on the proposed Hawley-Smoot tariff bill and its effect on American foreign trade. They follow:

S. Duncan Black, president of Black & Decker Manufacturing Co.

of Baltimore: Recent past discussions constitute the worst possible advertising United States could do and will go far toward nullifying good will manufacturers have long been striving to build for American products abroad. Retaliatory measures are already being put into effect by foreign countries. If the bill becomes a law it will probably necessitate our manufacturers establishing or enlarging factories in foreign countries to supply their export trade, thus reducing business and employment in United States.

J. C. Culbertson, vice president Southern Cotton Oil Co., Paris, Tex.: I consider the proposed tariff the greatest blunder of our administration. There are no existing necessities, so far as our industries are concerned.

The effect on our foreign trade will in more cases become disastrous. The understanding being generated among the countries on which we rely for market for our goods is being manifested in formal protest, and some of these countries are already passing retaliatory measures which will mean a menace to our industries and which threatens greater unemployment.

By Edward G. Miner, president of the Frandler Co., Rochester, N. Y.—The purchasing power of every country is determined by its production. If we cripple a nation's producing power by refusing to buy its goods we automatically restrict its purchasing power.

A United States tariff designed to prohibit imports is a direct blow at the commerce of other nations and bound to react harmfully upon us. The United States exports wheat, corn, cotton, tobacco, meat, land, fruits, copper, steel, automobiles, machinery and many other like products the production of which will be greatly curtailed in this country if other nations do not purchase from us.

It is estimated that more than 10 per cent of the population of the United States make a living through foreign trade. In number of people that means all the inhabitants of New York City, Philadelphia, Boston, Chicago and St. Louis combined, or the total population of Alabama, Arkansas, Arizona, California, Delaware, Idaho, Maine, Montana, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Utah and Vermont. Any law which deprives so large a proportion of our population of a means of livelihood will be a serious blow to our national prosperity.

SUPREME COURT TO DEFINE 'PETTY OFFENSES' IN TEST CASE

Ruling on Trial Without Jury Requested by District of Columbia Motorist.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 25.—The question of what constitutes a petty offense which can be tried without a jury will come before the Supreme Court in a case it has consented to review.

Because of recommendations of the Hoover Law Enforcement Commission that Federal Commissioners be given the right to try minor liquor law violations, the case is considered of unusual importance.

The question was brought by William H. Colts, who was arrested in the District of Columbia and prosecuted on the charge of reckless driving. He demanded but was refused a jury trial, and was convicted. The District Court of Appeals held that he was not charged with a petty offense within the meaning of the Constitution, and was entitled to a jury.

In asking the highest court to pass on the question, the District of Columbia emphasized the importance of a final decision on what constitutes a petty offense. The proposal to have commissioners try minor offenders was designed to relieve congestion in Federal Courts.

OUT OF WORK; HANGS HIMSELF

Former Edwardsville Factory Worker Ends Life in Garage.

The body of Silas Harmon, 44 years old, was found yesterday hanging by a rope from the rafters of a garage back of his rooming house at Edwardsville.

Harmon had been a factory worker, but was recently laid off and had been despondent. Harmon, who had lived in Edwardsville for the past 15 years, was formerly a resident of Sorento, Ill., and is survived by his mother, three brothers and a sister.

LINER BURNED AT DOCK

By the Associated Press.

HONOLULU, May 25.—The liner City of Honolulu caught fire at Pier 3 here late yesterday and three hours later was scuttled to prevent the flames from reaching 16,000 barrels of oil stored in the ship's after holds.

There were no passengers aboard the vessel when the fire was discovered.

CITY CLUB SAFE RIFLED, $438 IN CASH STOLEN

Burglar Overlooks $60—Householder Chases Thief and Recovers His Watch.

A safe of the City Club on the fourteenth floor of the Missouri Hotel Building was looted of $438 by a robber who used tools taken from the basement of the building. It was discovered yesterday morning. A cash drawer in the safe, which contained $60, was overlooked. Tools and a pair of white canvas gloves, apparently used to prevent leaving fingerprints, were found on the roof.

Loren Volten, 4442 Evans avenue, awakened early yesterday as a robber clambered out a window. He seized a revolver and pursued the thief, overtaking him in the rear of 4547 Evans. Volten recovered his watch and turned his prisoner over to police. The robber said he was Simon Ross, 25, Negro, former convict who was released from a Pittsburg prison a month ago after serving five years for robbery.

Seated in an automobile with a young woman in front of her home, 5519 Maple avenue, Samuel Zwielman, 5355 Ridge avenue, was robbed of $75 and a watch. He reported to police. Fred Wessel, 2854 Wyoming street, reported he was held up for $15 while in his car parked in front of 5155 Minnesota avenue.

A taxicab and $15 were taken from Clarence Meyers, chauffeur, by two passengers at Washington boulevard and Whittier street. The cab was recovered later. James Leach, 1125 January avenue, was held up for $10 by two men at Sublette and Dale avenues. Walking through an alley between Cass avenue and Mullanphy street at Fourteenth street, Daniel McMahon, 511 Chalmers street, was robbed of $4.50 by three men.

JOHN CECIL CLAY, WHO FOUND WEALTH IN AUTOGRAPH, DIES

One-Time "Crayon Reporter" in New York Penniless When Discovery in Barn Brought $51,000.

NEW YORK, May 25.—John Cecil Clay, whose declining days were made easy by an autograph, died yesterday. In his prime Clay was known as the "crayon reporter" for his sketches of eminent New Yorkers. Then he was stricken with paralysis.

He was penniless and his suburban home, Butterfly Farm, was falling into disrepair when he read several years ago that an autograph of Button Gwinett, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, was worth a lot of money.

He remembered that his father, Col. Cecil Clay, had such a letter, written by Gwinett to an ancestor, John Ashmead, and in an old barn behind his home he found the document among forgotten papers.

It had not only Gwinett's signature, but those of five other signers of the Declaration, and at an auction in New York it brought $51,000. Two days later the barn burned down.

With his new-found wealth, Clay had Butterfly Farm refurbished and repaired. It was there that he died yesterday at 55.

FORMER FLINT, MICH., BANKER ACQUITTED OF EMBEZZLEMENT

Grant J. Brown one of 16 Employees and Executives Indicted in $3,500,000 Shortage.

By the Associated Press. FLINT, Mich., May 24.—Grant J. Brown, former president of the Union Industrial Bank of Flint, was acquitted yesterday by a jury of charges of embezzlement, which resulted from a $3,500,000 shortage discovered last fall.

Brown was succeeded as president of the bank by Charles E. Mott, vice president of General Motors Corporation, formerly chairman of the board of directors of the bank, who turned over millions of dollars of his personal fortune to cover the shortage.

The jury of nine men and three women deliberated 45 hours.

Brown was one of 16 employees and executives of the bank indicted after the embezzlement was discovered. Twelve of the 16 now are serving terms in the Michigan State prison at Jackson.

The actual charge against Brown was misuse of $47,000. He still faces other embezzlement charges and also is accused of making a false statement to a state bank examiner. Prosecutor Beagle said after the verdict he had not determined whether to press these charges against the former bank head.

Novelist Killed in Auto Accident

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, May 25.—Cable dispatches today told of the death in Paris Sunday of Mrs. Katherine Keith Adler, prominent in Chicago society and the author of a novel only recently published. Motor-riding between La Havre and Paris with her husband, David Adler, an architect, Mrs. Adler was fatally injured when the machine skidded and struck a tree. Her husband was hurt slightly. Katherine Keith was born in 1892. Early this spring she published her first novel, "The Crystal Ice."

Runs Over Moose With His Auto

DULUTH, Minn., May 25.—While driving last night along the shore of Lake Superior, William Patterson was started to see a moose dash in front of his machine. Patterson applied his brakes, but the moose was felled. The animal, which was about two years old and weighed 200 pounds, was injured so badly it had to be shot.

Owl Injures Woman's Eye.
By the Associated Press.
LEXINGTON, Ky., May 26.—Mrs. J. M. Best, 55 years old, living east of Lexington, is in a hospital here for treatment for injuries inflicted by a screech owl. She may lose the sight of her one eye. Mrs. Best was feeding chickens when the owl flew from a tree and attacked her with beak and claw.

INCREASE IN BUILDING CONTRACTS OVER 1929

Commerce Secretary Puts Total for Four Months at $452,910,500.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 26.—The value of new contracts let for public works and utilities construction in the United States during the first four months of the present year is $452,910,500, it was announced today by Secretary of Commerce Lamont.

He said the total was 30 per cent in excess of similar contracts let during the same period last year. The record was declared to be "a significant and highly gratifying advance, indicating effective co-operation of all concerned," in President Hoover's effort to stimulate business.

The largest single item of the department's compilation was furnished by the road building program, the total expenditure on which for the first four months was indicated at $196,678,000 against $142,000,000 during the same period last year.

In the endeavor to indicate what that sum means in terms of employment, the statement said during recent years, the number of men employed in the country on road construction during the first quarter has averaged 200,000. The number has customarily increased to 400,000 during the second quarter. The 1930 contract totals are taken to mean that these totals of employment will be sharply increased.

In types of construction aside from road work, the greatest gain has been made this year in contract for lighting and park development, which are placed at 96 per cent more than last year. On water supply systems, the 1930 expenditure is running 46 per cent above last year; on bridges 42 per cent; and on railroad construction 16 per cent.

Contracts awarded for hospitals and institutions this year are 121 per cent in excess of last year. Those for the construction of public buildings are 11 per cent less in value than those of last year, and declines have been registered in expenditures on new buildings for railroads, and in sewerage plant installations.

On the other hand, private residential construction in the United States during the first four months of the year, the department finds, is 49 per cent less than the 1929 volume, while industrial construction is 24 per cent under 1929 and commercial buildings 14 per cent less.

"LINCOLN'S BOY SPY" DIES
Capt. L. A. Newcome Was Messenger at White House.
Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, May 26.—Capt. Lewis Allen Newcome of the old guard of New York, a drummer boy in the Union Army, who served as special messenger at the White House for President Lincoln, died yesterday at his home, after a brief illness. He was 86.

Born in Braintree, Mass., Capt. Newcome enlisted at the outbreak of the Civil War as a drummer boy with the Sixth Massachusetts Infantry. He was sent once with a message to Lincoln, and so impressed the President that he was transferred to duty in the White House. He told his experiences in Washington in a book, "Lincoln's Boy Spy," published last year.

Veteran Aviator Killed in Crash. Warren Smith, 42 years old, veteran aviator of Waukegan, Wis., who crashed with his airplane while flying over the Duluth airport Wednesday, died at a hospital yesterday from his injuries.

One Dollar Per Month Per Person

It Costs the Average Home to Use Electrochef Electric Range

Thousands of women who know the many advantages of cooking electrically have deferred doing so because they thought it too expensive. Hundreds in St. Louis and environs have recently learned the low initial and operating costs of Electric Cookery.

Cooking with Electrochef costs about one dollar per month per person... frequently less, seldom more. Ordinary care in the control of heat may greatly lower this cost. Electrochef cooks by focused radiant heat... a new principle in electric cooking. It cooks more rapidly, evenly and thoroughly because the chromium reflectors of the burners and the chromium-lined oven redirect all heat rays to the foods. Electrochef will broil a 1 1/4 inch steak perfectly in 12 minutes and retain all its savor undimmed by smoke and fumes. The oven reaches a baking temperature of 400 degrees in less than six minutes.

Heretofore we have been unable to sell a full-size four-burner range for less than $192.50. Now you can get Electrochef—guaranteed for one year by Union Electric and the manufacturer—for exactly $93.50 less than this amount—

Guaranteed For One Year

Electrochef is guaranteed for one year by the manufacturer and by Union Electric. See it at any Union Electric appliance store or we will gladly send an electric cookery specialist to your home to tell you more about it.

ONE PRESCRIPTION MADE FAMILY DOCTOR FAMOUS

Seldom has any single act of greater benefit to mankind than that of Dr. Caldwell in 1885, when he wrote the prescription which he carried his fame to the four corners of the earth.
Over and over, Dr. Caldwell wrote the prescription as he found it: women and children suffering from those common symptoms of constipation, such as coated tongue, loss of appetite, and similar things. Demand for this prescription grew so fast, because of the pleasant, sure way it relieved such symptoms, that by 1888 Dr. Caldwell was forced to have it put ready for use. Today, Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, as it is called, is ready at any drug store.

carried his fame to the four corners of the earth.
Over and over, Dr. Caldwell wrote the prescription as he found men, women and children suffering from these common symptoms of constipation, such as coated tongue, unpleasant breath, headaches, gas, nausea, biliousness, no energy, lack of appetite, and similar things.
Demand for this prescription grew fast, because of the pleasant, quick way it relieved such symptoms of constipation, that by 1886 Dr. Caldwell was forced to have it put up ready for use. Today, Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, as it is called, is always ready at any drug store.

REFORMER 40 YEARS, SHE QUILTS PROHIBITION

Former Head of New York
Prison for Women Supports Program of Morrow.

By Leased Wire from the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, May 26.—Dr. Katherine Bement Davis, an ardent dry throughout 40 years of active sociological work, has announced her conversion to the cause of prohibition reform. A descendant of three generations of total abstin-ers, Dr. Davis, for 13 years head of the State Reformatory for Women at Bedford, is another notable convert to the wet cause from the ranks of teetotalists and biologists and men and women in public life, who say that 10 years of Federal prohibition has proved disastrous.
"I have decided that prohibition has not worked and never can work," said Dr. Davis. "It would require a veritable army of men and billions of dollars to enforce it.
Even then, I believe, it would not be successful without the cooperation of the various states, municipalities and the citizenry." Therefore, I now believe the cause of teetotalism can best be advanced by a change in the prohibition laws, and am heartily in favor of the point of view proclaimed by Dwight W. Morrow.

Dr. Davis, now 70, but still engaged in the research work of the Bureau of Social Hygiene on Drug Addiction and its research of sex problems, was one of the most widely quoted penologists of the country during her many years in the field. She made extensive studies of delinquent girls while at Bedford and, following her activities with the Parole Commission, spent 10 years as general secretary of the Bureau of Social Hygiene, retiring from that position in 1928.
During all of this period she believed firmly in prohibition, in the activities looking toward its passage and in the work of the W. C.
T. U. and the Anti-Saloon League.
"I found in my work with delinquents," she explains now, "that alcoholism played a large part in the cause of crime. I hailed the enactment of the prohibition laws. I never spoke or worked for prohibition, and I was on a special mission in Europe when the law was passed.
But I believed, as President Hoover has stated, that it was a noble experiment. Until recently I still held that belief."

Her change in sentiment now is due, she points out, to the rapid increase in crimes of violence due to prohibition, to extortion, graft, bootlegging and liquor running that have been the natural results, and to the widespread, almost universal drinking that has followed in its wake.

MAID SUFFOCATES, FINANCIER AND GUESTS LEAP TO SAFETY Fire Destroys $250,000 Home of Lucien H. Tyng on Long Island.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, May 26.—Startled from sleep by a fire that already had swept the lower floor of the home of Lucien H. Tyng, financier, at Southampton, L. I., Mr. and Mrs. Tyng and two guests were forced to jump from windows on the second floor to save their lives early yesterday, but Ann O'Grady, maid, died from suffocation when she was trapped in her room on the third floor. Six guests and six servants escaped through a French window on the ground floor and by way of the service stairs in the rear. The 18-room structure, valued with its furnishings at $275,000, was destroyed.
Mr. and Mrs. Tyng, Mrs. Allen
Hunt Bartlett, a sister of Mrs.
Tyng, and Mr. and Mrs. Horace C.
Greene were taken to Southampton Hospital suffering from burns, suffocation and shock.
Tyng is vice president of W. E.
Barstow & Co., engineers. His Southampton home, which is part of an extensive estate, fronted on Halsey's Neck Lane. Across the road are Mr. Tyng's recently completed private theater and swimming pool, completed at a cost of about $1,000,000.

$300,000 ESTATE DISPOSED OF IN G. W. SIMMONS' WILL Widow to Receive Income; Four Children to Share Equally on Her Death.

The will of George W. Simmons, president of the Huttig Sash & Door Co., disposing of an estate estimated to be worth $300,000, was filed in Probate Court today.
It provides that the widow, Mrs.
Virginia Simmons, is to receive the income from the estate, for which she, her son, Richard, and the St.
Louis Union Trust Co. are named trustees. On her death the estate is to be divided equally among the children who, besides Richard, are Lottie, Virginia and Georgia.
Mr. Simmons died last week at the Country Club following a polo practice.

DALLAS RAILROAD MAN FOUND DEAD ON TRAIN

Richard Meriwether, vice president and general manager of the Dallas Railway & Terminal Co., Dallas, Tex., was found dead in his berth on Frisco train No. 3 when it arrived at Union Station at 8:10 o'clock this morning. An autopsy indicated death was due to heart disease.
Mr. Meriwether, who was 54 years old, had been active in Dallas electrical railway circles for 20 years. On leaving his home yesterday to go to New York on a business mission, he was in good health, relatives said.

BOY SCOUTS CLOSE 3-DAY CAMPARALL

Father and Son Rally, Final Event, Addressed by New York Pastor.

The third annual Boy Scout camparall in Forest Park ended yesterday with a meeting in the Municipal Theater at which more than 1000 of the Boy Scouts and their fathers heard the Rev. Dr.
John L. Davis, pastor of Washington Square Methodist Episcopal Church, New York, discussing modern boyhood.
The camp, on the old aviation field at the south side of the park, where the boys had lived since Friday afternoon, was broken after the meeting. Ribbons for proficiency in camping were awarded as follows:
North District—Troop 151, first;
Troop 88, second; Troop 65, third;
First patrol of Troop 123, fourth, and Second patrol of Troop 122, fifth.
West District—First patrol of South District—Troop 198, first;

Troop 63, second; Troop 192, third;
Troop 27, fourth, and First patrol of Troop 178, fifth.
Suburban district—The Webster Groves troops were graded in this order: Troop 3, Troop 4, Troop 14, Troop 8 and Troop 2.

Dr. Davis said the solution of the boy problem rests with the fathers, for boys follow their fathers. It is not enough to tell a boy what to do, the father must show him and be his example, he said.

The youths of today, he said, are no worse than their fathers and mothers were before them, but the world is a very different place and ten paths to do wrong are open to a boy today where there was only one a generation ago.

Harry Scullin, chairman of the Activities Committee of the St.
Louis Council of the Boy Scouts, presided. Clarence Howard, president of the council, was on the platform. The invocation was given by the Rev. John P. Spencer, pastor of St. Roch's Catholic Church, and the benediction by Rabbi Julius Gordon, Temple Shaare Emeth.

INDEPENDENT BREWERIES CO. ASSETS ORDERED SOLD

Judge Parks Names Special Master for Sale, Fixing Upset Price of $350,000.
Assets of the Independent Breweries Co., which produced 600,000 barrels of larger beer in its six breweries in 1916, one of its prosperous years, selling it for $4,400,- 000, and which has been making soft drinks since prohibition, were ordered sold today by Federal Judge Faria. The company has been in receivership for nearly three years.

William R. Gilbert, an attorney, was appointed special master to conduct the sale, the decree fixing an upset price of $350,000.
The sale was ordered following the filing of a foreclosure suit by the Franklin-American Trust Co. and the Illinois State Trust Co. of East St. Louis, trustees of a $1,- 000,000 bond issue of the company, of which $1,996,160 is outstanding.

AMERICAN GOLD STAR MOTHERS VISIT GRAVES

Final Trip Made to Battlefield Cemeteries by the First Contingent.

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, May 28.—American Gold Star mothers visiting here today made souvenir hunting their chief occupation and the shops did a thriving business with novelties.
The unostentatious visit of the American mothers to the graves of their sons has revived sadness in thousands of French homes which were made desolate by the war, but observers think it has also resuscitated the determination of the masses to fight for peace.

"Mysterious indeed are the workings of Providence," said a distinguished Frenchman today.
"Who can fall to be struck by the fact that these mothers come to us when France, and all the foes of warfare, are seeking to fashion a durable fabric of peace?"
The mothers of the first group to cross the Atlantic on a pilgrimage to the graves of the American war dead yesterday said good-by to their boys in the battlefield cemeteries. The mothers are back in Paris today. Their last day in the battle zone was marked by two important events, the French national celebration of "Mothers' day" and the formal opening of the American Legion Auxiliary's annual poppy drive by Ambassador Walter E. Edge.

"Mothers' day" came to France from the United States, and this year the Government urged every town to observe it. In Paris and many other places, medals were given to mothers of large families.
In others there were prize baby awards. In all there were sermons and speeches to inculcate reverence for motherhood and appreciation of the national duty to care for the nation's mothers.

Officials of the pilgrimage today announced that Mrs. Mary Reynolds of Damascus, O., and Mrs.
Florence Williams, Portsmouth, O., were gravely ill.

Mrs. Williams is at the Hotel Nouvel Verdon, suffering from bronchial pneumonia contracted during one of her visits to her son's grave. Mrs. Reynolds who was taken to the American Hospital yesterday suffering from what at first was thought to be indigestion, was found to have acute peritonitis.

Another Group Is Entertained at Westminster.
By the Associated Press.
LONDON, May 28.—Gold Star Mothers from the United States and veterans of the A. E. F. who accompanied them yesterday took possession of Westminster, where they were received on behalf of the Government by the Earl and Countess de la Ware. The Earl is parliamentary Undersecretary of State for War.

The Americans, comprising 156 mothers and 115 veterans of the Twenty-seventh Division, who are acting as their traveling companions, arrived in England Saturday to begin a pilgrimage to the graves of sons and buddies who died in the World War.

The Countess received the Americans and bade them welcome, assuring them of Great Britain's heartiest sympathy with their pilgrimage.

Then officials, including Ambassador Charles Daves, mounted the stone steps and made speeches of welcome. Earl Jellicoe and Lady Edward Spencer Churchill brought the visitors greetings from the British Legion.

Led by Ambassador Daves and Col. John Thomas, military attache at the American embassy, the little group marched across the street to Westminster Abbey, where they silently gathered about the tomb of England's Unknown Soldier.

Mrs. Flora McCoy of Tomsawila, N. Y., who lost two sons in the war, laid a wreath on the simple slab, while others bowed their heads in silent prayer.

After the Abbey ceremony, the procession formed once more and marched down Whitehall to the cenotaph which is Great Britain's official memorial to her World War dead. Mrs. Frances Walters, who is also a two-gold star mother, laid a simple red poppy wreath on the steps leading to the cenotaph.

MRS. HATTIE K. LEVIE DIES

Widow of Illinois Glass Co. Officer to Be Buried Wednesday.

Mrs. Hattie K. Levie, widow of Frank Levie, who was an officer of the Illinois Glass Co. at Alton, died at St. Luke's Hospital at 2 a. m.
today, following a major operation.
She was 62 years old.

Mrs. Levie was born at Alton and lived there all her life. Her husband, whose father founded the Illinois Glass Co., died in 1903.
Surviving are a son, J. P. Levie, three sisters, Mrs. W. J. Fischer of St. Louis, Mrs. W. D. Miller and Mrs. Thomas Morfoot of Alton, and two brothers, Allen and Irving Kelser, also of Alton. Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Wednesday from the residence, 509 East Twelfth street, Alton, with burial in Alton Cemetery.

DAMAGED AIRSHIP IN HANGAR
By the Associated Press.
CARDINGTON, England, May 28.—The airship R-100, after waiting three days for the weather to permit removal from the mooring mast to its hangar, today was shunted into the shed and before noon workmen were at work on the damaged stem. The airship bucked mightily during its flight last week.

Repairs include strengthening a 30-foot section of the dirigible.
About three or four days will be needed for the work.

THAT'S TRUE OF A RIPE
TOBACCO
CIGAR

SUN-RIPE, perfect middle-leaves of the tobacco plant are the only leaves used in the famous MAPACUBA CIGAR. Not under-ripe "top" leaves—not the bottom over-ripe leaves—but the luscious, mellow, cool-smoking, ripe middle-leaves. Every MAPACUBA is kept fresh, and protected by a Cellophane wrapper. Standard sizes—10 cents, and two for 25 cents.

GALLANT KNIGHT

WHICHONE AND GALLANT FOX
MAY MEET FAIRMOUNT CLASSIC
WINNER AT CHICAGO, JUNE 14

By Dent McKinnis.

Gallant Knight, winner of the Fairmount Derby, probably will soon get a chance to wipe out the defeat he suffered at Churchill Downs when Gallant Fox beat him by two lengths for the $50,000 prize. Kay Spence, trainer of the Audley Farm Stable, said yesterday that he will enter his horse in the American Derby, at Washington Park, Chicago, on June 14, and he expects to see Gallant Fox and possibly Whichone among the contenders.

"No, I don't think he was so much a greater horse Saturday than he was at Kentucky," said Spence in answer to a question regarding Gallant Knight's easy victory.

"You see, Earl Sande carried my horse wide on both turns, down there at Churchill Downs," he added. With Spence, it was Earl Sande winning and not Gallant Fox. "Gallant Knight was both-ered twice during the running of the race. He was just as great a horse then as he was Saturday but he enjoyed better racing luck in the Fairmount Derby." In this case, Gallant Knight, hustled to the front by Schutte at the break, took a slight lead in the run down the stretch, won the position on the rail and then forced the others to run the wide, long route in trying to pass him.

"I'm going to ship from here Monday, June 3, for Cleveland, where Gallant Knight will run in the Ohio Derby at Thistledown track Saturday, June 7. Then, a week later, we will be at Chicago for the American Derby." In this case, Gallant Fox will be there.

Gallant Knight's time would seem to indicate he is really a great 3-year-old. Fairmount is not regarded as the fastest track in the West, but he stepped the first six furlongs in 1:12 2-5 and the mile in 1:27 4-5 and the mile and a quarter in 3 minutes and 4 seconds.

The next important stake on the Fairmount program is the Decoration Day Handicap, to be run Friday. It will be a six furlong dash for 3-year-olds and up.

On Saturday, the Mid-West Handicap, at a mile and a sixteenth, will feature a race in which these stakes carry added money of $2000.

The Audley Farm establishment had a pretty fair week. Its Gallant Knight finished second in the Kentucky Derby, won the Fairmount Derby, and its Easter Stockings, on Saturday, won the Chicago Handicap at Churchill Downs. All of which netted $23,170 in prize money.

Verlyn Smith, the boy who had his license taken away from him by the Kentucky Racing Commission because he was only 14 years old, returned to the saddle at Woodbine, in Canada, Saturday. Apparently the Canadian governing body has no rule against boys under 16 making their living by riding. Verlyn, a brother of Dent Smith, riding at Fairmount, was leading the jockeys at New Orleans last winter when the commission halted him. In Canada he will ride the horses of H. C. Hatch, who

My Dandy and Brown Wisdom
Sent to Chicago

It seems there is such a thing as being too good. The Reichert brothers have shipped their popular racers, Brown Wisdom and My Dandy, along with others of their stable to Chicago, where they will compete in a number of stakes.

Brown Wisdom won the Inaugural Handicap here with My Dandy second and later Brown Wisdom captured the Jefferson Handicap with 132 pounds up. My Dandy also won two races in one of which he shouldered 122 pounds. It became a question of whether the Reicherts wanted to risk injury to the horses through the burden of excessive weight. Their alternative was to ship to Chicago, where their stars will meet horses of their own class.

Brown Wisdom and My Dandy are both entered in the Washington Park Handicap today, a six furlong event which features the opening day program at the Chicago course. Before shipping from here, the Reicherts sold a 3-year-old filly, Avastie, to Ed McCuan. She started here twice but was far back both times.

He purchased several of E. R. Bradley's racers a month ago.

Vacations IN THE WEST ARE THE BEST

and we'll prove it.

That sounds like a "large order," but once you've had a breath of mountain air... or tasted trout fresh from a mountain stream... or felt the thrill that comes from a great mountain or canyon, you'll know what a REAL vacation is. You'll be "sold" on the West without further argument.

NOBODY ELSE CAN OFFER YOU SO MUCH
We throw open to you the doors to western wonderlands. Fine, fast trains serving 15 National Parks and more of the scenic West than any other railroads, including
YELLOWSTONE ZION BRYCE GRAND CANYON ROCKY MOUNTAIN RAINIER YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARKS CALIFORNIA COLORADO UTAH PACIFIC NORTHWEST AND ALASKA
Take advantage of our free travel service. Experienced men help plan your trip. Take an escorted tour with all details arranged in advance. The first cost is the only cost. That's the way to enjoy a vacation. Mail the coupon today.

KILLS SELF IN FRONT OF WIFE AND FAMILY

Raymond Hoener, Potosi, Mo. Farmer, Ends Life When Recognition Fails.

While his estranged wife, their two small children, his brother and his father-in-law looked on, Raymond Hoener, 34-year-old Potosi, Mo., farmer, dropped a note addressed to his wife and fatally shot himself in the chest yesterday afternoon after they had parked their automobiles near Geneva and West Florissant avenues preparatory to visiting graves of relatives in Bellefontaine Cemetery.

Mrs. Hoener, with their children, May 11 years old, and Juanita, 3, had been visiting her father, John Fay, 4111 North Euclid avenue. Hoener came to St. Louis yesterday and was accompanied by his brother, Nelson Hoener, 4915 Palm street, when he went to see his wife.

In his brother's machine, Raymond Hoener followed Fay's automobile, shooting himself with a revolver after making another effort to effect a reconciliation. The note gave separation from his wife as the reason for his act.

UNION ACCUSED OF CONSPIRACY

By the Associated Press.
CLEVELAND, O., May 26.—Court action alleging that the Cleveland union of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers is in conspiracy with the Electrical Business Association of Cleveland, a contractors' organization, to fix prices of electrical work in violation of the Ohio antitrust law, was filed today by County Prosecutor Ray T. Miller.

The prosecutor's action is in the form of an injunction suit. It alleged conspiracy was stifling competitive bidding.

STUDEBAKER AUTOMOBILES
GRAND AND LINDELL

To St. Louis Motorists:

If you own a six-cylinder car, its trade-in value is higher today than it will be six months from now. Not alone because it is six months "younger," but more especially because of the sweeping trend toward eights. (You remember how the shift from fours to sixes obsoleted medium and high-priced 4's.)

Studebaker offers you three great lines of seasoned eights—cars which are backed by three years of eight-cylinder manufacturing experience, by Studebaker's 78-year-old reputation for dependable value. These cars hold 5 world and 18 international records, and more official American stock car records than all other makes combined.

For as little as $1195 at the factory, —only $395 down on our budget payment plan—you can drive a seasoned Studebaker Eight. Low operating cost is yours along with low first cost. In 23 official tests throughout the country, a Studebaker Eight averaged 18.9 miles to the gallon of gasoline. Last week in St. Louis in an official test one of our stock eight-cylinder sedans averaged 19.3 miles to the gallon. Last year, factory repair parts sales amounted to less than $7 per Studebaker car in operation.

Your purchase of a Studebaker Eight from Arthur R. Lindburg, Inc., carries the additional assurance of service satisfaction. We are in business in St. Louis to stay, and my own 14 years of motor car selling (8 with Studebaker) have taught me that the only key to permanent success is to sell honestly and to service conscientiously.

Yours very truly,

Arthur R. Lindburg

LAST week, 14 six cylinder owners in St. Louis traded-in their cars on Studebaker Eights. Come in NOW! Buy your new Eight when you have the greatest need for a car... and can get the maximum price for your old car!

KANSAS CITY'S SAD EXPERIENCE WITH FRANCHISE

City Counselor, Discussing Ruling Against Fare-Fixing Plan Tells of Company's Broken Promises.

SUGGESTS PERMITS TO PUBLIC UTILITIES

Barker Asks "Is it Possible Promoters Deliberately Deceived Municipalities in Getting Law Amended?"

By SAM J. SHELTON.
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 26.—"In view of the existing court decisions it is silly, unless and ridiculous for a city to enter into any franchise contract with a public utility," City Counselor John T. Barker of Kansas City said in discussing with a Post-Dispatch reporter the recent decisions of the Missouri Supreme Court knocking out the fare-fixing provisions of this city's new service-at-cost street railway franchise.

Later in the interview Barker, formerly Attorney-General of Missouri, expressed the view that instead of granting franchises a city should give to public utilities permits making them secure in their rights to operate as long as they deal fairly with the municipality, but retaining for the city the defensive power of being able to revoke the permit and order the utility out of the streets in case of willful and persistent refusal to deal fairly.

As is known, Kansas City learned from the Supreme Court decision, handed down two weeks ago, that its contract with the Kansas City Public Service Co. for an 8-cent fare doesn't mean anything. Under the court's ruling the company is free to proceed before the State Public Service Commission with its application for a 10-cent fare.

The Kansas City Public Service Co. is a near relative of the St. Louis Public Service Co., having been organized, just as the St. Louis company was, by J. K. Newman, professional promoter and reorganizer, for the purpose of taking over the street railway from the receivership. The City Utilities Co. of Delaware, a Newman holding company, which controls the St. Louis street railway system, also has a large interest in the Kansas City company.

In plain language Barker described the Kansas City situation and gave his views of franchises.

Wanted to Float Securities.
"At the time we granted this franchise in 1927," he said, "these promoters admitted we could not contract as to rates. But they said they wanted to float some new securities, which they could not do favorably with a franchise that expired in 12 years. They said they could do it better with a 30-year franchise."

"We asked them: 'If we can't contract with you as to rates why should we give you the valuable grant of a new franchise?' They replied that they had a fine corps of engineers and were expert operators, running street railways in St. Louis and New Orleans and having an interest in Chicago and New York, and that they would contract with us as to valuation upon which fares would be based."

"We doubted our right to do that and then they said they would guarantee the 8-cent fare schedule would produce an adequate return on their property regardless of valuation. They said their engineers, having made an exhaustive study of the property, knew its value and believed they could get a $40,000,000 valuation from the Public Service Commission on the basis of reproduction cost less depreciation. But they said they knew they could not earn a return on any such valuation."

Promised Not to Seek Increase.
"They said: 'But give us a 30-year franchise and we will guarantee this fare schedule will give us all we want and we will guarantee we will not ask for or accept an increase unless the cost of material and equipment increases $100,000 in any one year.'"

"We took them at their word. We made the contract under the service-at-cost amendment to the State public utilities act, which said that any city of 75,000 or more population could enter into a service-at-cost contract with a street railway company. We submitted our contract to the Public Service Commission and it approved it, as provided under the law. We thought the matter was at an end."

We will fight to the last ditch.Under the Supreme Court's decision, this law does not give the city any powers it did not have before."The Post-Dispatch heretofore has told how the law originated with the Newman group of promoters at the time they were re-negotiating for control of the Kansas City and St. Louis street railway properties; how it was written by Powell Groner, a lawyer in Newman's employ and now president of the Kansas City Public Service
Co., with the assistance of Bennett Clark, St. Louis attorney; how it was introduced by the St. Louis representative of the St. Louis Street Railway Reorganization Committee induced the St. Louis Board of Estimate and Apportionment to indorse the measure; how Stanley Clarke, another Newman lawyer and now president of the St. Louis Public Service Co., appeared at Jefferson City in 1925 in the interest of the bill, and how, after its enactment, Stanley Clarke made an unsuccessful attempt to obtain a 99-year service-at-cost franchise from St. Louis.Hints at Fraud and Deception.
Alluding to the history of the measure, Barker made this observation:
"If this law is meaningless, is it possible that the promoters deliberately brought about its enactment for the purpose of deceiving cities into believing they could control rates and inducing them to grant new franchises, and is it not possible that Kansas City canceled this franchise on the ground that it was procured by fraud and deceit, as any other fraudulent contract may be voided?"Barker then inquired about the Post-Dispatch's proposal that the St.
Louis grant permits instead of franchises.
He was told the Post-Dispatch advocated that no more street railway franchises be granted when the existing ones expire.
"Thereafter the property city authorities grant simple permits to operate, based on the company's agreement to accept city regulation of fares and service; that such permits remain in effect as long as the company faithfully lives up to the agreement, but in the event the company defaults its agreement, as the Kansas City company did,
and appealed to the Public Service Commission, the city would have the right to compel it to remove its tracks from the streets for lack of a franchise, and the city would make it unlikely that it ever would have to be used.""That is exactly right," Barker said. "It is the only way to do it.
It is the city's only defense against a utility's wilful and deliberate refusal to deal fairly and keep its contract obligations."FRENCH LEAVE GERMAN CITY

By the Associated Press.WASHINGTON, May 26.—A marine "Great White Way" is to be established in New York harbor this year by the Lighthouse Service, in an attempt to prevent collisions and fog touts, which have marked that port's activities during recent winters. A line of 12-ton buoys, each displaying a flashing light and clanging heavy, deep-toned bells will be installed to lead ships past the Statue of Liberty and into Ambrose channel.The sugar duties under the proposed bill will amount to $135,- 000,000. According to Prof. John R. Commons, former Tariff Commissioner David J. Lewis and other experts who have studied the pending bill the sugar tariff will benefit only 147,000 beet and cane sugar farmers of the country, while costing consumers $291,000,- 000 a year.The next highest rate is the tobacco schedule which shows an average ad valorem duty of 64.74 per cent. The rates fixed in this schedule, particularly on Sumatra tobacco used as wrappers for 8-cent cigars made in this country, were adopted over the protests of American producers. It is conceded the bulk of the tobacco growers in Kentucky, Wisconsin, Ohio, Pennsylvania and other tobacco producing states will derive no benefit from the bill.Among the rates which will be fully effective in increasing the cost of living to the consumer are the schedules covering manufactures of wool, silk and rayon. As reported, the wool schedule shows an average ad valorem rate of 59.83 per cent, the silk schedule, 59.12 per cent, and the rayon schedule, 52.51 per cent.The wool schedule, which shows the highest level of rates among the clothing schedules, was advocated by Senator Grundy of Pennsylvania, who is a worsted woolen manufacturer. The Grundy schedule shows an increase of 20 per cent above the rates in the existing law and greatly increases the rates on many items.

PEIPING, May 26.—A set of pole sticks was included in the kit of Dr. Roy Chapman Andrews, paleontologist, when he left Peiping at noon today by train for his fifth expedition into Mongolia."We expect to stage the first international polo match ever seen in Mongolia," he said. "The Mongols are great horsemen and Lieut.
Wyman and I are going to see how much they remember about the game which was introduced to China from Persia by way of Mongolia centuries ago."The expedition left here for Kalgan, on the great wall of China, about 100 miles northwest of Peiping. It will spend five months in the field, and the explorers of the American Museum of Natural History plan to cover an area of between 2000 and 4000 square miles in the Gobi Desert, where few white men have ever been before.Into Unmapped Area.
The expedition, after leaving Kalgan, will travel northwest through desert country by automobile for about 400 miles. Then it will work eastward to a district that has never been mapped, but lies about halfway from Kalgan to the Russian frontier and to the east of the Kalgan-Urga road and telegraph line.To find trace of the ancestors of the million-year-old Peking woman is the immediate objective of Dr. Andrews. The area on which he will concentrate is a great strip of the earth's pliocene stratum, preceding the ice age, which scientists believe was the period of the Peking woman.The party consists of Dr. Andrews as leader and zoologist; Walter Granger, chief paleontologist and second command; Albert Thomson, assistant in paleontology; and J. MacKenzie Young, chief of motor transport. All of these accompanied the Asiatic expeditions on previous trips. Lieut. William G. Wyman, assistant military attache of the American Legation, Peiping, is topographer, and Dr. C.
D. Garber of the Rockefeller foundation hospital, Peiping, surgeon.
W. C. Pei of the Chinese Geological survey and Doctor H. C. Chang of the Canton University are active members. Pei made the actual discovery of the skull of the Peking woman 20 miles from Peiping.
There are also nine Chinese helpers and camp attendants and eight Mongol camel boys.

Civil Disobedience Campaign.By the Associated Press.
KARACHI, India, May 26.—
Word was received here today that Sir Shah Nawaz Khan Bhutto, a member of the Bombay Legislative Council, in presiding over a Mohammedan meeting at Sukkur, in Bombay province Thursday night, called upon his hearers to ignore the civil disobedience agitation as a Hindu movement. He said it tended toward anarchy and revolution.Charging that the civil disobedience campaign was the climax of efforts of the Hindus to get possession of the Government for themselves, he said it was time for the Indian Congress to save its own reputation by checking the movement.The meeting adopted a resolution deplored the extremist attitude in rejecting the British offer of a round table conference to discuss India's status. The resolution urged all Indians, particularly Moslems, to keep aloof from the civil disobedience campaign. A second resolution appealed to sister communities to discontinue the present political tactics in support of Mahatma Gandhi's volunteers.
A third appealed to Viceroy Lord Irwin to give the Mohammedans of Sind, who form two-thirds of the entire Moslem population of the province, a fair share of the entire Moslem population of the province.

A Big Idea

BROKEN MELODY. By M. J. Spawick. (The Talking Picture Publishing Company, New York City, $2.00.)

THE Talking Picture Publishing Company is a new organization with a big idea—nothing less than the introduction of a brand-new literary form with enormous possibilities. If this new form comes over in a big way, we are assured, it "will open the gates to innumerable writers" who thus far have been excluded from participation in the glories of authorship or "have been compelled to express themselves indirectly and often abjectly (alas!) through novels and stage plays." (Just what but certainly the Wickes Commission ought to investigate.) This is truly a terrific prospect, and it may yet come to pass that only the relatively few who may stubbornly refuse to write at all shall win prizes and medals and immortal fame for a week or two, so great shall become the admiration of men for literary competence; and braven monuments may be erected to champion illiterates.

It is alleged that "Broken Melody" is positively the first example of the new literary form, which is a sort of conventionalized talking-movie script. The substance of the composition is like a bad dream, and apparently it is intended to suggest allegorical meanings of sublime significance, but as to any understanding of the author's meanings, if any, this writer is humbly willing to be searched. Nevertheless, three cheers and a hurrah for progress!

It is excellent news that open war has broken out at last among the publishers and that as a result we may expect the market to be flooded with cut-price books by great odds. It is to be taken for granted that the author will be the hardest hit by this competitive price-slashing; and this one fact promises much. Perhaps a few thousands of our writers may, as a result, forsake the pen for the pick, although it is likely to be the pick-mentality that will survive in such a scramble. Even so, the sooner the literary business can be reduced frankly to the level of any other scheme whereby human desires and follies are exploited for profit, the better for all of us.

SHORT TALKS ON SCIENCE.

By Edwin E. Slosson. (The Century Co., New York City, $2.00.)

Dr. Slosson, who died last October, was a pioneer in the popular interpretation of science. In this last volume he discusses in an entertaining manner subjects as widely separated as the future evolution of man and the method of heating by means of cold-air, the Niagara Canal and Music, and the future of the world.

SCANDINAVIAN SUMMER.

By Harry A. Frank. (Century Company, New York City, $4.00.)

Harry Frank, "the prince of travelers," spent five months in roaming about Denmark, Finland, Sweden, Norway and Iceland by way of collecting material for this volume. The high place deservedly held by his books of travel ever since he issued his "Vagabond Journey Around the World" more than a quarter of a century ago, makes unnecessary any praise of his latest work, other than to say that it does credit to its author.

The chapters on Iceland are of special value, since it appears to be true that far less is generally known about Iceland than of any other civilized country.

"ARMOR OF LIGHT." By Tracy D. Myatt and Frances Witherspoon. (Henry Holt & Co. $2.) The two women, Miss Tracy D. Myatt and Miss Frances Witherspoon, who have collaborated in the writing of "Armor of Light," have done so in the avowed hope that their literary picture of first-century Christian martyrdom will serve to inspire readers to alleviate the present-day problems of "men, still in bitter bondage to hunger, hatred and war." To achieve this admirable end, they have written a novel-like piece of fiction which seems to have been brought together through intellectual decision rather than through that organic fusion which welds a work of art. Unfortunately the attempt to recapture the mood of an age of idealism has resulted in an Elsie-Dianore-like atmosphere of religiosity that becomes more than a little monotonous. F. C.

EXPECTANT FATHERS, THEIR CARE AND TREATMENT.

By Douglas Vass Martin Jr. (De Vass Publishing Co., St. Louis, $1.)

A book is said to have been indirectly responsible for the abolition of slavery. It is too much to expect that the present volume may revolutionize our attitude toward maternity, may elevate father to his rightful position in a patriarchal world?

Mr. Martin does not arrogate to expectant fathers any rights or privileges not legally theirs. Though the book voices centuries of oppression at the hands of doctors, nurses and maternal kin, it is not written with the righteous wrath of the reformer. Rather a calm, philosophic defense, far more telling in its effects, is made. Mr. Martin's suggestions regarding maternity will be welcomed by all right-thinking fathers.

PRINCIPLES OF AGRICULTURAL CREDIT.

By Virgil P. Lee. (McGraw-Hill Book Co., Inc., N. Y. $4.)

"Discusses the origin of credit, the factors which affect the flow of credit, the various uses of credit by farmers, the methods used by financing institutions in obtaining funds from original investors and in making loans, the cost of credit and the relation of the Federal and State governments to agricultural credit." The author is Professor of Marketing and Finance at the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Texas.

The Week's New Films

By NIE

"HOLD EVERYTHING," at the Ambassador this week, is another one of those rough and tumble screen versions of a stage musical comedy success put together for laughing purposes only. It succeeds in its purpose because Joe E. Brown and Winnie Lightner, both of them funny, are before the camera most of the time.

TREADWAY HORSE WINS IN FIVE-GAITED CLASS

Bem-Air Pride, Favorite, Is Sixth—Show at Missouri Stables Closed.

W. T. Treadway's Rex Lee Bourbon, ridden by Harry Daniels, surprised in winning the five-gaited event in the closing program of the Spring Horse Show at the Missouri State stable yesterday.

The favorite, Bem-Air Pride, was off form and finished sixth, with Peavine Dave second and Norma Peavine third.

Spectators near the north curve of the arena were treated to some excitement when Life Foot, in the Junior Jumping class, hurled the fence and landed in the runway among the spectators. No one was injured. The rider, Robert Merts Jr., 11 years old, was shaken up.

Due to unsteadiness, Dr. John R. Caulk's mare, Elizabeth Greis II, lost out in the three-gaited saddle race, first place going to Evelyn Mercer.

Winners of the other events follow: Junior Jumping, Step Aside, ridden by Jane Johnson; junior fine harness, Artistic Rose, driven by Miss Margaret Holskamp; polo ponies, Caterer, ridden by Edward C. Simmons II; junior three-gaited pairs, Al Greis and Al Jr., ridden by Mary Van de Linda, 7 years old, and Lily Claire Faust, 8 years old, and under, Lily Claire Faust, on Al Jr. and roadster class, Joe, driven by L. M. Watts.

ALICE MACKENZIE AND 'THE CUCKOOS' AT ST. LOUIS

Like the little girl with the curl in the old nursery rhyme, the new show at the St. Louis Theater this week when it is good, is very, very good and when it is bad, is bad.

Well, anyhow, the compensating features are Alice Mackenzie, Municipal opera prima donna of last year, the Diamond Boys and the motion picture "The Cuckoos."

Blonde Alice Mackenzie in a striking red dress sings two or three songs about roses very prettily and gives "My Hero" from "The Chocolate Soldier" for an encore.

Two girl pianists, St. Louisans, by the way, help keep the audience in a good humor during costume changes.

The Diamond Boys specialize in plain and fancy nuttiness. Incidentally they sing and dance.

The vaudeville also includes the Great Rolfe, a midwest magician, who has with him three women midgits, one of whom is a really clever dancer; Ken Christy and company in a lot of insane running around in the name of comedy; and Jack Osterman, Meyer Friedman's house orchestra, more or less hampered by Osterman—or maybe the name is Osterman, he's so sleep inducing—gives a pretty good performance.

"The Cuckoos" is a grand scale musical comedy, eight-and-a-half act production with Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey, the comedy team that provided all the laughs in "Rio Rita." But this is their show whereas "Rio Rita" belonged to Bebe Daniels and John Bowles, and it is, therefore, chiefly for laughing purposes. There are lively tunes and beautiful chorus numbers. "The Cuckoos" is all wound up like a clock and sure to strike at funny time.

Partial arrangements have been made for the wedding of Miss Helen Huntingdon, daughter of Mrs. Howard R. Huntingdon, to William Davis Dobson II, son of Dr. and Mrs. Walter N. Dobson. The ceremony will take place at 3 o'clock in the evening of June 21 at the Huntington home. Miss Kathryn Huntingdon will be maid of honor for her sister, and the bridesmaids will be Miss Anne Becker, daughter of Judge and Mrs. William De Becker; Miss Eleanor Dobson, sister of the bridegroom; and Mrs. G. O. Brown, formerly Miss Emily Mullen. The list of groomsmen has not been completed.

Miss Huntingdon will graduate from Washington University next month. Miss Kathryn, a student at Radcliffe College, will take part in a wedding at Leesburg, Va., June 21, and will return home the following day.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

A FARMER party, with appropriate costumes and setting, will be given Wednesday night at the Deer Creek Club on the Lindner road by Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Wooster Lambert, complimenting Miss Claire Garneau and Clarence E. Maloy, and their wedding party. Last night Mr. and Mrs. Leo De Smet Carlton, 5151 Westman avenue, gave a buffet supper for the group following an informal tea by Mr. and Mrs. George P. Whitelaw II. Tomorrow night Mr. and Mrs. Louis A. Hager Jr. will have a dinner at the Bridlepur Hunt Club and Thursday night Mrs. Sharp Essel will entertain the young women of the wedding party at her home, 48 Westmoreland place, while Mr. Maloy gives his bachelor dinner at the Bridlepur. Friday night Mr. and Mrs. Donald Church Bixby of Southmore will give another dinner at the Bridlepur for Miss Garneau and Mr. Maloy, and the following evening some of the groomsmen will have a dinner at the same club. Sunday night the last of the long series of socials will be given at the Bridlepur by Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Hawes Jr.

Miss Margaret Moll of Carmel, Cal., formerly of St. Louis, arrived yesterday to be a bridesmaid at the wedding next Monday at the St. Louis Cathedral, and to take part in the preceding festivities. She is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Essel. The out-of-town groomsmen will arrive Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. William C. d'Arcy, 6 Hortense place, and their son, William C. d'Arcy Jr., will depart June 4 for the East to attend the commencement exercises of Miss Wright's School, from which Mr. and Mrs. d'Arcy's daughter, Miss Helen, will be graduated. Miss d'Arcy probably will visit friends at Farmington, Conn., following her graduation. In the autumn she will tour Europe under the chaperonage of Mrs. A. W. Lincoln. Others in the party will be Miss Helen Hemingway, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Linn Hemingway, 7711 Maryland avenue, and Miss Mary Cott Day, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Day, 5117 Westminster place.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, May 26. DARTY of a modern Peppercorn by a hit-wit telephoning me to pronounce s-p-l-t-h-a-l-a-m-l-u-m and I hung up in his ear. So up and a card from Wadsworth Rothacker in far-away Egypt, where everybody seems to have gone, and to breakfast with Winnie Sheehan.

In the afternoon with my wife to the news reel theater where there was a talkie by a brave Chicago policeman who, somewhat lacking in suave social graces, had killed eight handits and had to glance at notes to remind himself of their names. And for some reason we grew hysterical and had to leave.

To tea at Clara Bell Walsh's and Ed Wynn, Oscar Shaw and some others there.

SIX dogs had paws mingled in the escalator of a large department store during the past 10 days and if the store does not post a sign warning dog owners I know a certain long faced busybody who is going to notify the S. P. C. A.

A telegraph office in Chinatown, cherry-lipped and sleepy Chinese girls serve as telegraphers and attendants. Chinese, I am told, are as a class heavy telegraph patrons.

GENTLEMAN, suddenly ousted from a $30,000 a year job, dropped in today philosophically to observe: "I don't want another big job. It hurts too much to lose it."

THE biggest blow in losing an important job is to pride. Yet years of observation convinces me men who lose such posts—unless through drink or dishonesty—usually go to more important jobs. Most men who reach enviable positions in the world have been given the gate several times. It is not losing one's job but one's grip that counts. And those who care for such prattle postized should turn quickly to the credulous cooings of Eddie Guest.

HARRY REICHENBACH, the publicity provocateur, observing a certain gentleman in a cafe, declared: "No person could be as important as he is trying to look."

MACARONI parlors are opening some of the spaghetti trade. Next to chop-uey restaurants, the spaghettiists control the mid-town eating belt. And each one is, of course, "the little place where Casuso used to dine several times a week."

CASUSO was not especially devoted to spaghetti. Ravola was his dish. When he dined on spaghetti he usually prepared it himself in his apartment in the

to the glory of God." Rev. Mr. Jena will be in the new institution, to all patients will be removed, after which the old building at 4125 West 10th, erected in 1906, probably will be torn down.

TROUSSEAU BUDGETS FOR THE JUNE BRIDE

$200 if the Husband Makes $50 a Week, $500 if His Income Is $100.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, May 26.—Mrs. Teresa Speed, budget expert of the New York State Federation of Women's Clubs, has presented for consideration by June brides of 1930 the latest in budgets—trousseau budgets.

There is a $200 budget for the girl who is going to marry a young man who earns $50 a week, a $350 budget for the bride of a $75-a-week man, and a $500 budget for the future mistress of a home where the weekly income will be $100. Here they are, complete:

	$200	$350	$500
White dress for wedding	$20.00	$35.00	$65.00

	$200.00	$350.00	$500.00

"It is ridiculous," Mrs. Speed said, "for girls who by working several years have been able to save over $1000 to spend all of this when their husbands-to-be earn only $50 a week. They are merely setting up fictitious standards, and later on they will resent their husband's inability to keep up to those standards."

TARIFF AS FIXED IN BILL HIGHEST IN U. S. HISTORY

Duty on Necessaries Raised.

The largest increases above the present law are made in half a dozen of the 15 schedules which include common necessities of everyday use by the consumers of the country. When the Senate and House bills went to conference the wood schedule showed a slight reduction in the general level of rates, but in its final text the Hawley-Smoot bill increases the average rate for the wood schedule 31 per cent over the Fordney-McCumber rate. This increase is due to the fact that a duty of $1 on 1000 board feet has been written into the bill by the conferees after it had been decisively rejected by a separate vote in the lower House.

In comparison with the existing law the average rate for the schedule covering earths, earthenware and glassware has been raised 17 per cent, the sugar schedule, 12 per cent, the cotton schedule, 15 per cent, the wool schedule 20 per cent and the sundries schedule 24 per cent.

The sharp increase in the average rate for the sundries schedule includes the 20 per cent duty on men's women's and children's shoes, agreed to by the conference committee. Shoes have been on the free list more than 20 years.

The Senate rejected the proposed 20 per cent shoe duty, but it was written into the final text of the bill by the action of the conferees.

The complete collapse of the contention made by the authors of the Hawley-Smoot bill that the farmer would have parity with industry in the pending revision is apparent from analysis of the conference report.

The average rate for the farm schedule has been increased 71 per cent above existing law, but the level rates in this schedule remains in the pending bill at 34 per cent ad valorem. This is only a little more than half the ad valorem rates on manufactures of wool, silk and rayon and other manufactured products of which the farmers are among the principal consumers.

Moreover, it is conceded that the increases on farm products carried in the final text of the bill will be totally ineffective in raising the net income of 6,000,000 farmers of the country raising wheat, corn, cotton, tobacco and other staples.

Not one farmer out of 10, it is estimated, will receive increased prices to offset increased living costs under the rates fixed by the Hawley-Smoot bill on sugar, California and Florida fruits, nuts and vegetables and meats.

While most farm producers will get no direct benefit from these rates, tariff experts agree that many of the increased duties will be effective in raising food prices to city consumers.

The fact that the Conference Committee has boosted the level of the rates in every one of the 15 tariff schedules confronts the Senate in advance of its final vote on the bill. If the Senate votes to send the bill to the White House, President Hoover will have to choose between signing or vetoing a tariff bill higher in every schedule than the Payne-Aldrich act, which led to the Republican split in the 1912 campaign.

75TH ANNIVERSARY OF MARRIAGE OBSERVED Pair in Masonic Home Receive Congratulations of Younger Companions.

Uncle Bill Maxwell, 97 years old, and his wife, Aunt Hester, who is 90, have seen so many wedding days come and go that yesterday didn't make much difference to them even if it was their seventy-fifth anniversary.

They spent the time quietly sitting by the windows of their sunny room in the Masonic Home of Missouri, Delmar and Union boulevards, where they have lived for 26 years. Their more youthful companions—"the young folks," as they call them—"dropped in off and on for congratulations and that was about all.

Uncle Bill and Aunt Hester came from a farm in Linn County, where they were married and set out in life with a yoke of oxen, a horse and a cow.

That was the year of "Bleeding Kansas." Violence and bloodshed abounded in Western Missouri where border bands sacked villages and farms. Across the line free-staters and pro-slavery forces had started the curtain raiser to the Civil War.

Uncle Bill's father ran a wood and iron working shop in Gasconade County where his son, William, was born just after Andrew Jackson began his second term. Benjamin Harrison was born that year and so was Robert G. Ingersoll. Texas had begun its fight against Mexico. The first temperance society was formed in the East. In Illinois there was a storekeeper named Abraham Lincoln drifting into bankruptcy.

As soon as he was old enough Uncle Bill went to work in his father's shop, making and repairing spinning wheels, looms and wagons.

Aunt Hester's family lived on a farm a couple of miles from the Maxwell place. That accounts so far as they remember, for their getting acquainted. That and going to the same school.

She was six years old when the sewing machine was invented, but that was in the East, and for many years thereafter she carded wool, spun and wove goods and made the clothes for her family of children, six of whom died. She did her share of field work, too, hoeing corn, shocking wheat and putting up hay from season to season. Uncle Bill did not go to the Civil War—he was one of those who stayed on the farm and raised food for the soldiers. After it closed he took his family to California for gold, but losing their savings, $1800, they returned to Missouri and became tenant farmers. Declining health and hardships followed.

Boy, 3, Drowns at Higbee, Mo. Special to the Post-Dispatch.
HIGBEE, Mo., May 26.—George Smith Jr., 3-year-old son of George Smith, living northwest of here, was drowned Saturday in the creek. His mother was attracted to the creek by the barking and peculiar actions of a dog.

STATE BANKERS OPEN 3-DAY CONVENTION

Melvin A. Traylor and John G. Lonsdale to Be Among Speakers at Session.

A three-day convention, the fortieth annual, of the Missouri Bankers' Association opened in Hotel Jefferson today with registration of delegates. Business sessions will start at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning with the address of the president, F. B. Brady, vice president of the Kansas City Commerce Trust Co.

The annual golf tournament was held today on the Glenside Country Club course. The Joplin cup, the championship trophy, and 10 other prizes will be awarded tonight at an informal dancing party in the Jefferson crystal room.

John G. Lonsdale, president of the American Bankers' Association and of the Mercantile-Commerce Bank & Trust Co. will speak at 11:15 a. m. tomorrow. The afternoon session will include a study of costs analysis and application by Benjamin E. Young, comptroller of the Kansas City Commerce Trust Co., and four 15-minute talks on policies governing proper bank administration.

These talks will be made by W. S. Pettit, vice president of the Springfield Union National Bank; J. J. Bowman, president of the Boone Terra People's Bank; Fred Wrightman, cashier of the Brainerd First National Bank, and A. W. Nelson, president of the Booneville Bank.

An address by Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National Bank of Chicago will be one of the features of the meeting. He will speak at 11:15 a. m. Wednesday on "The Bank for International Settlement." M. A. Kendall, vice president of the Pittsburgh Farmers' Deposit National Bank, also will speak Wednesday morning. Wednesday afternoon will be devoted to a discussion of legal topics conducted by William A. Martin, governor of the St. Louis Federal Reserve Bank.

The General Arrangements Committee representing the St. Louis Clearing House Association consists of: M. E. Holderness, chairman; W. J. Brannan, L. C. Bryan, F. J. Kurtz, Ben S. Lang, A. L. Locatelli, John P. Meyer, E. J. Mudd, J. L. Rehme, W. M. Stone and R. R. Tilley.

WASHINGTON BOY, 17, WINS NATIONAL ORATORICAL CONTEST

Edmund Gullion Gains Right to Participate in International Event Next Fall.

WASHINGTON, May 24.—Edmund Gullion of Washington Saturday night won the National Oratorical Contest. Gullion represented the Washington Star. Seymour M. Peyer, 17 years old, of New York City, was second and Vernon Lawrence Withuhn, 18, of Seattle, Wash., third. Gullion's victory qualifies a contestant in the fifth international oratorical contest here in the fall. He is 17 years old and a senior in Western High School.

Peyer represented the New York Times, and Withuhn the Seattle Times. Gullion won his victory with a six-minute prepared speech on "John Marshall and Federal Supremacy," and a four-minute extemporaneous talk on "Marshall's Part in the Trial of Aaron Burr, with particular reference to the constitutional issues."

Secretary Wilbur in an address traced briefly the history of oratory. He said he considered one of the most fortunate advances accomplished through the radio was that public speakers have been forced to prepare better addresses. "Buncombe over the radio sounds like buncombe," Wilbur said.

OPPOSES U. S. INVESTMENTS IN FACTORIES IN OTHER LANDS

Federation of Labor Executive Says Practice Means Unfair Competition With Home Products.

Investment of American capital in European factories was criticized by Mathew Weil, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, in an address before the Central Trades and Labor Union at Carpenters' Hall yesterday afternoon.

"Even labor organizations do not appreciate the significance of the investment of American money in European factories. True, much of the product of such plants will be consumed locally, but the surplus will eventually find its way into the United States and, because of the low labor cost in Europe, will compete unfairly with American-made products. It is obviously unfair for American manufacturers to invest in foreign factories at a time when our own plants are being closed and thousands of workers are being forced into the ranks of the unemployed."

Weil also spoke on the unemployment situation, stating that machines are taking the places of skilled workmen generally in industry.

GRANITE CITY POSTOFFICE

ROBBERY; LETTERS OPENED

Burglars, who forced a window and broke into the Granite City Postoffice last night, opened letters in an apparent search for currency and stole a parcel post package valued at $20.

Recently a Granite City insurance agency reported that letters containing currency had been intercepted and the contents stolen.

Find Watch Lost 16 Years Ago—SHELBYVILLE, Mo., May 24.—A watch lost 16 years ago was found last week by J. M. Feischer while plowing in a field at his farm northeast of here. The case and crystal were intact and the works, though rusty, are being repaired. The watch was lost by Feischer's son, Forest, while playing in the field.

"What! Run my motor for 50 hours at 80° above 'boiling'...?"

YOU ARE RIGHT. You couldn't do it. The only place such a radical test of motor oil could be made is in the laboratory—and that's where it was made.

In the ordinary motor car, this experiment would be impossible because water boils away at 212° F. In the laboratory engine, however, the cooling system was filled with liquid that boils above 300° F. With the temperature at this extremely high point, they let the engine hum for 50 hours.

Strange as it may seem, the engine was unharmed. This new oil had retained its lubricating value throughout those gruelling hours.

This test shows clearly one of the important advantages of New ISO-VIS. It gives effective lubrication at the highest driving temperatures although none of its lubricating value is lost at extremes of cold.

New ISO-VIS brings a new factor of safety in motoring and a relief from lubrication troubles. In addition to giving better lubrication at extremes of temperature, it forms less carbon and is the only oil that will not thin out in your crankcase.

You can get New ISO-VIS at any Standard Oil dealer or service station. To get the most out of your engine, use New ISO-VIS regularly.

START THE DAY WITH A GOOD BREAKFAST

A Substantial Morning Meal Helps to Start the Day Right.

Most mothers who pay any attention at all to nutrition and have an appreciation of the value of the right kind of food, realize the necessity of an adequate breakfast for the children. They do not, however, always apply this realization to their own need.

A good breakfast is just as essential to the grownups in the family as it is to the children. Food plays a great part in keeping us fit, and the wrong kind of food or an inadequate supply can cause a mental depression that often lasts through the day.

Every individual needs a definite quantity of food and a variety of food to both satisfy and meet his physical needs. Many people who are very active during the morning, start the day on a cup of coffee and a bit of toast or a glass of fruit juice, and then wonder why they feel so fatigued in the early afternoon.

Very often the "no breakfast" habit is a habit acquired because one is rushed in the morning, or because of over-fatigue and lack of proper rest, there is little appetite for the morning meal.

Monotony in the breakfast diet is another cause for a lack of appetite. True, it requires a little more thought on the part of the homemaker to plan a varied breakfast, but the results are well worth the slight extra effort. As a matter of fact, very often a considerable part of the breakfast may be planned while getting dinner the night before.

On these cold mornings, hot cereals have a great appetite appeal. There are many kinds that require only a few minutes' cooking, and those that do require half an hour or more may have this time considerably shortened by putting the cereal and the water together in the double boiler the night before. This long soaking will soften the grain so that in the morning 10 or 15 minutes' cooking will make it palatable and digestible.

Plan to use the whole grain cereals frequently as they are an excellent source of the body building and regulating minerals and vitamins that are so important in the daily diet.

Hot breads are another good breakfast food, and when they are to be served, all of the dry ingredients may be measured, mixed and sifted the night before and the other materials gotten together so as to save time in the morning.

The following breakfast menus are varied and yet simple to prepare. They are also economical and yet supply an adequate amount of food for the average individual.

Breakfast Menus.

1. Chilled pineapple juice, cereal; creamed chicken, corn muffins, coffee for adults and cocoa for children.
2. Sliced bananas, boiled rice, tomato omelet, whole wheat toast, marmalade, coffee, cocoa.
3. Baked apples, stuffed with figs, cereal, tomato and mushroom toast, coffee, cocoa.
4. Stewed pears, boiled hominy, baked sausage, hot rolls, coffee, cocoa.
5. Stewed prunes with orange juice, farina, scrambled eggs with sausage, bran muffins, coffee, cocoa.
6. Grapefruit, cereal, fish cakes, prune muffins, coffee, cocoa.
7. Sliced oranges, cereal, bacon, crisp corn bread, coffee, cocoa.

A TEMPTING SALMON PLATTER
Attractive Way of Preparing This Favorite Sea Food.

A salmon platter makes a nice change for a main dish. Take contents of one can of salmon, three tablespoons butter, five potatoes, one-half cup bread crumbs, two tablespoons catsup and two cups white sauce.

Grease a baking platter well. Spread hot or cold salmon on bottom. Sprinkle with a bit of lemon juice and catsup.

Sprinkle the browned buttered crumbs over the fish; then pour over white sauce.

On top of the white sauce spread sliced potatoes, hot or cold.

Sprinkle with salt and pepper, dot with butter, and brown in quick oven or broiler. Garnish with watercress.

TRY DILL PICKLE SALAD
Made With a Can of Deviled Ham and Dill Pickles.

Dill pickles are liked by almost everyone which probably accounts for the popularity of dill pickle salad.

To make it use six medium sized dill pickles, one small can deviled ham, one-fourth cup chopped parsley, two tablespoons chopped green peppers, two hard cooked eggs, three-fourths cup mayonnaise, one teaspoon tomato catsup and a head of lettuce.

Cut dill pickles in half lengthwise and scoop out centers. Mix celery, catsup, chopped eggs, green peppers, deviled ham and finely chopped centers from dill pickles. Mix all with mayonnaise.

Fill pickle halves with salad and arrange two halves on a bed of lettuce shredded for each serving.

BROWN BREAD SANDWICHES ARE TEMPTING TIDBITS

These Made With Hot Steamed Bread Have Edge on the Cold Variety.

A luncheon dainty that has appetite appeal is the hot brown bread sandwich. It is a real treat and very easily prepared.

Before cutting brown bread steam the whole loaf by putting it in a steamer.

The steaming process enhances the taste of the bread in just the same way that plum pudding is improved by steaming.

Make a filling for the sandwiches by using one-half cup of raisins, one-fourth cup of water, one-eighth cup of orange marmalade and one teaspoon of cornstarch. Heat the water and raisins, thicken them with the cornstarch and after they are removed from the stove add the orange marmalade.

A second type of sweet filling for a brown bread sandwich is made by creaming butter and powdered sugar together in the same manner that hard sauce is made. Add sufficient lemon juice to give a pungent flavor to the filling which may be thinly spread over both slices of the sandwich.

A dessert of fresh fruit or a salad dessert will balance such a plate luncheon.

When It Curdles.

There is only one infallible way of getting curdled mayonnaise to "come back." Start all over again with another egg yolk, add a little oil to it and when it has thickened, very gradually beat in the curdled dressing until it is all blended into the new.

Brazil Nuts.

Place the Brazil nuts into a moderate oven and let them become warm before trying to break the shells. Then when they are cracked the nut meats will come out whole and the skin is easily removed.

Pure Extract.

Be sure you buy pure extract of vanilla flavoring. There is all the difference in the world, as vanilla flavoring will stand out by itself in every dish and utterly take away the delicacy of it. Buy the pure extract.

"THE NEXT TWO WEEKS SHE GAINED 15 OUNCES"

Excuse me, dear reader, just a minute, while I open my mail. Here's a letter from Muskogee, Oklahoma, that sounds interesting. Perhaps you'd like to hear it.

"Dear Mary Blake," it begins, "I must tell you what Carnation Milk has done for my baby. At seven weeks I took her to a specialist, for she was under-weight and had gained only 2 ounces in two weeks. He put her on a formula using Carnation Milk and in the next two weeks she gained 15 ounces!"

"She is a year old now and has had no other milk since. She is not fat, but well filled out and let the correct weight, and has a very happy disposition. Her teeth, which she has cut just lately during some of our hottest weather, have caused no upset in her digestion, and she has been free from the ailments so common during the second summer."

That is interesting, isn't it? Did you know that Carnation Milk is now being prescribed by the very greatest specialists as the ideal milk for bottle-fed babies? Well, it is—and the reason is that it has been found to be far easier to digest than any other form of cow's milk.

You see, Carnation is heat treated; and that causes it to form very fine, soft, flaky curds, which the baby's stomach can digest almost as easily as the curds of mother's milk. Carnation is homogenized, too, so the butter-fat is in tiny particles which do not tax the digestion.

Besides being more digestible, Carnation is fully equal in nutritiveness to the very best of bottled milk. It is unsweetened evaporated milk—only water is taken out of pure whole milk; nothing is added. Butter-fat, carbohydrates, minerals—all are there. The vitamins are the same as in bottled milk, so only the usual supplements—orange juice and cod-liver oil—are needed.

Really, I wish every mother knew about this wonderful milk. Think of the safety of milk that comes sterilized in an air-tight can, protected from any possible contamination. Think of being saved the bother of boiling or pasteurizing. Think of how the uniformity of this milk prevents upsets. Think of being able to get the same milk anywhere, if you happen to be traveling or visiting. Do you wonder that I get heaps of enthusiastic letters from mothers of Carnation babies?

If you'd like to know more about Carnation Milk for babies please write for the new Carnation booklet, "Baby-Feeding Simplified." It will show you what medical authorities say about this good milk. And, if you are interested in novel, delicious recipes, send for the Carnation cook book. Both are free. Address Carnation Company, 100 Carnation Building, Oconomowoc, Wis.

USE THE SAFEGUARDED
MILK

Protect your baby from diet upsets by using the milk of unchanging goodness. Guard your baby's health by using the milk that is always safe—because sterilized. The greatest baby-feeding authorities say that Carnation is just as nourishing from the standpoint of vitamins, minerals, etc.—as the best bottled milk, besides being far easier to digest.

INCLUDE ENTREES IN THE FAMILY MENUS

An Entree Is Often Served as the Main Dish at an Informal Dinner.

The word "entree" as it is used in American meal planning, has come to mean a meat or meat substitute served in combination with sauce or other highly seasoned foods.

For formal dinners the entree is served as an extra course, light in character and immediately preceding the roast. But for informal dinner or for luncheons, entrees are often used as the main dish in the meal.

They may be hot or cold, and for this time of year and the warm months that will soon be here, the cold entrees seem particularly appetizing.

Meats, fish and shell fish, cheese, eggs and cooked vegetables lend themselves to the making of a number of delicious entrees.

Sometimes these foods may be combined with rice or macaroni, seasoned with thick cream sauce or meat gravies, or mayonnaise, etc.

Shrimp Entree.

An excellent example of this type is a shrimp entree made by combining one and one-half cups finely cut shrimp with two cups cold rice, one cup cooked, cold peas and one-fourth cup of mayonnaise. This mixture is seasoned with one tablespoon lemon juice, salt, pepper and a little Worcestershire and packed in individual molds to be served cold with lettuce or watercress, a garnish of ripe green olives and curled celery, such a dish makes an ideal luncheon or supper dish.

Cucumber and Liver Patty.

Wipe one pound of calves' liver with a damp cloth, parboil it until tender, drain and chop fine. Peel, quarter and remove the seeds from one large cucumber and steam for 15 minutes. Cut cucumbers into smaller pieces, mix with one cup bread crumbs and brown in one-fourth cup hot butter. Add two cups brown sauce, season well with onion juice, salt, pepper and chutney.

Add liver and, if you have them, four thinly sliced truffles—mushrooms would do almost as well—beat together thoroughly and serve. Garnish with currant jelly.

Chicken giblets may be used in patties as well as calves' liver and steamed eggplant—peel and cut in small pieces—is delicious combined with meats of rather strong flavor.

Stuffed Sweet Potatoes.

Bake four large sweet potatoes and when tender cut in halves lengthwise and scoop out the pulp. Mash fine, add salt, paprika and butter to taste and sufficient rich milk so that the mixture may be whipped up. Fold in half a cup of chopped walnut meats, heap into the potato skins and lay a thin slice of bacon across the top of each. Set in a hot oven and serve as soon as the bacon is crisp.

SEASONING FOOD IS AN ART THAT IS EASILY ACQUIRED

Wide Variety of Seasonings, Spices and Condiments Is Available.

The art of seasoning or flavoring foods properly is one that is necessary to acquire.

It is not difficult and the main requisite is a good supply of the wide variety of spices, condiments, and seasonings that are available.

Among the most important of these are salt and pepper, dry and prepared mustard, vinegar, Worcestershire sauce, paprika, cayenne pepper, nutmeg, cinnamon, allspice, ginger, curry powder, bay leaves, powdered thyme, a package of poultry seasoning, and such flavoring extracts as vanilla, lemon, almond, peppermint, orange, etc.

Most of these things are used in very small quantities, and may be bought in small cans or glass jars with close fitting covers and they will last a long while.

It is important that all seasonings be kept closely covered so that they do not lose their strength and their flavor.

Do not be afraid to experiment with various combinations—they all add to the interest of cooking and of eating.

Many New Jersey Prohibitionists Will Support Him on Ground of Superior Qualifications.

By Leased Wire from the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May 26.—Enoch L. Johnson, leader of the Atlantic County Republican forces, will support Dwight W. Morrow for the nomination for the United States Senate against former Senator Frelinghuysen and Representative Fort in the New Jersey primary. It is learned. Johnson's decision is viewed as a tactically important one in the three-cornered race.

Unusual among leaders in New Jersey, Johnson has been able in the past to hold in line practically the entire voting strength of his district for the candidate to whom he has given his allegiance. While geographically south, politically Atlantic County is not considered a part of the "South Jersey" controlled by Senator David Baird, a Morrow supporter. In previous elections, Atlantic County has often proved to be a deciding factor in the State elections.

State Senator Emerson L. Richards is backing Frelinghuysen, but his support is considered chiefly of a personal nature. The organization leader of the county may be able to keep the machine in line anyhow.

The impending trial of Mayor Ruffo of Atlantic City, scheduled for June 4, will not affect Morrow's candidacy materially, inasmuch as the investigation which led to charges against Ruffo was purely local and will not be an issue in the senatorial primary campaign. Ruffo is a cog in the Johnson machine.

The candidates will devote their attention this week to South Jersey which is chiefly rural and mostly dry. Although Baird has controlled these counties it is thought that Fort may make inroads because of his high standing with farmers on the dry issue.

Large campaign expenditures have long been considered an essential part of New Jersey politics, a fact of which Senator Morrow and his Senate Campaign Investigating Committee apparently is cognizant. Fort announced yesterday he was willing to co-operate with the committee. Morrow's expenditures, according to authoritative information, have not exceeded $10,000 since his activities began. Although his workers have made a number of commitments it is said his total expenditures will be low for a senatorial primary.

Frelinghuysen, who has indicated willingness to disclose his campaign expenditures to the N.Y. committee, will invade South Jersey this week.

With the backing of the Anti-Saloon League, Fort will have prominent drys campaigning for him, including Prof. Irving Fisher of Yale. The Morrow forces say they will have just as prominent drys ready to come forward for Morrow on the ground of his general superior qualifications, and it was said that in addition leading anti-prohibition spokesmen were prepared to send their outstanding speakers into the state to aid the Ambassador. Representative Florio H. La Guardia of New York, it is known, is willing to talk for him and it is generally believed that former Senator James W. Wadsworth of New York also was ready to take the stump for Morrow.

MORROW TO USE BOTH NET AND DRY STUMP SPEAKERS

By Leased Wire from the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May 25.—Enoch J. Johnson, leader of the Atlantic County Republican forces, will support Dwight W. Morrow for the nomination for the United States senate against former Senator Frelinghuysen and Representative Ruffa in the New Jersey primary. Johnson's decision is viewed as a tactically important move in the three-cornered race.

Unusual among leaders in New Jersey, Johnson has been able in the past to hold in line practically the entire voting strength of his district for candidates to whom he has given allegiance. While geographically south, politically Atlantic County is not considered a part of the "South Jersey" controlled by Senator David Baird, a Morrow supporter. In previous elections, Atlantic County has often proved to be a deciding factor in the state elections.

State Senator Emerson L. Richards is backing Frelinghuysen, but his support is considered chiefly of a personal nature. The organization leader of the county may be able to keep the machine in line.

The impending trial of Mayor Ruffa of Atlantic City, scheduled for June 4, will not affect Morrow's candidacy materially, inasmuch as the investigation which led to charges against Ruffa is purely local and will not be an issue in the senatorial primary campaign. Ruffa is a cog in the Johnson machine.

The candidates will devote their attention this week to South Jersey which is chiefly rural and mostly dry. Although Baird has thought that Fort may make inroads because of his high standing with farmers on the dry issue, large campaign expenditures have long been considered an essential part of New Jersey politics. The fact of which Senator Ruffa and his Senate Campaign Investigative Committee apparently is confident. Fort announced yesterday he was willing to co-operate with the committee. Morrow's expenditures, according to authorities, have not exceeded $10,000, although his campaign headquarters claim a number of commitments, he said his total expenditures will be less for a senatorial primary.

Frelinghuysen, who also has indicated willingness to disclose his campaign expenditures to the Senate committee, will invade South Jersey this week.

With the backing of the Anti-Slavery League, Fort will have prominent drys campaigning for him, including Prof. Irving Fisher of Yale. The Morrow forces say they will have just as prominent drys ready to come forward for Morrow on the ground of his general superior qualifications, and it was said in addition leading anti-prohibition spokesmen were prepared to send their outstanding speakers into the state to aid the Ambassador. Representative Florentino H. La Guardia of New York, it is known, is willing to talk for him and it is generally believed that former Senator James W. Wadsworth of New York also is ready to take the stump for Morrow.

Jews Attack British Order
Protest Against Suspension of Immigration to Palestine.
A resolution protesting against the British Government's suspension of immigration to Palestine was adopted last night by members of the Progressive Order of the West, meeting at the Y. M. H. A. auditorium.

Mendel N. Fisher, executive secretary of the midwest and south-west division of the Zion Organization, said the British action was a "betrayal of the Jewish people." "If England wishes to regain the confidence of Jews all over the world, it must, without delay, again open the doors to Palestine," Fisher said.

KILLED IN FRIEND'S PLANE
Kansas Hiding With Unlicensed Pilot, Who Is Badly Hurt.
TOLA, Kan., May 25.—Henry Rickett, 29-year-old Girard (Kan.) truck driver, was killed and Robert E. Morris, 30, was injured seriously in an airplane crash near here yesterday. Morris, chief engineer of the electric light plant at Girard, was at the controls. Although not a licensed pilot, he had been flying for 10 years.

The men were taking off for Girard after a visit in Iowa and the ship had attained an altitude of about 100 feet when it turned downward and crashed. Morris escaped the plane.

AMERICANS IN MEXICO OPPOSE HARRIS IMMIGRATION BILL

Telegram to Hoover From C. of C. Asks Legislation Would Be Most Unwise at This Time.

MEXICO CITY, May 25.—The Executive Committee of the American Chamber of Commerce has made public the text of a telegram sent to President Hoover, describing the Harris bill to put Mexican immigration under quota laws as "most unwise at this time."

The telegram said: "In view of the present cordial and friendly relations between the United States and Mexico, it is the opinion of the Executive Committee of the American Chamber of Commerce of Mexico City, endeavoring to represent American business interests and to further these friendly relations, that the proposed legislation restricting immigration from Mexico would not be in actual good and would be most unwise at this time."

"Nothing should be done to affect adversely this amicable feeling, and such legislation will also be inimical to trade and the friendly relations of the two countries."

The committee thought that "to pick out Mexico as the only country of the Western world for putting into effect such restrictions inevitably produces most unsatisfactory results and recommends a veto if the bill reaches the President."

CIRCUIT JUDGE SPRAGUE WILL NOT SEEK ELECTION
Jurist Was Appointed by Gov. Caulfield to Fill Vacancy Caused by Death of Judge H. E. Sprague.

Circuit Judge Harry E. Sprague, who was appointed by Gov. Caulfield, Feb. 5, to the bench to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Judge Moses Sale, today notified Samuel C. McClure, treasurer of the Republican State Committee, that he would not be a candidate in the August primary for the nomination to fill out the remaining four years of Judge Sale's term. He will retire when his successor is elected in November.

Judge Sprague said his reasons for not becoming a candidate were personal, and that he desired to give early notice of his intention that any other Republicans who might have been holding off in the expectation that he intended to run, would be informed.

SMITH TO WRITE ON CIVICS
Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, May 25.—A book on civics by the late President Woodrow Wilson, which was planned by former Gov. Smith. He has had such a book in mind for some time and recently contracted with Harper & Bros. to publish it, probably next year.

"The book will be personal and popular in treatment," according to the publishers. "Plans have been made to have a special edition prepared for the use of high-school and college classes in civics government. The book will be unique, as no similar contribution to the science of popular American government has ever been made by an executive of Smith's long and first-hand experience."

MARKET NEW YORK CURB MARKET PRICES REACT FROM EARLY HIGHS ON CURB

NEW YORK, May 26.—The curb market displayed a generally active tone in today's moderately active trading, although the list backed up in the late dealings.

Electric Bond and Share, which had been above 185, dipped back to around 182. American Superpower yielded most of a one-point gain and other prominent shares, including Associated Gas and Electric, United Fruit and Foreign Power Warrants also reacted from their day's highs.

Deere was a weak spot, breaking about 6 points to below 115, its lowest in some time, in sympathy with the weakness of farm implements, shares on the big board. Ford rose half of an advance of more than 2 points, which had resulted from buying stimulated by the news that the company was to be made an aviation holding corporation. Ford of Canada, as well as Western Air Express, Hires and Technicolor were firm. Safeway Stores lost several points.

Goldman Sachs Trading, under pressure on Saturday, made substantial recovery. Oil was dull but pointed higher, with a gain of Kentucky and Gulf up more than a point.

Greta Garbo's Life Story

Greta Garbo and Gustav von Seyffertitz in a dramatic scene from "The Mysterious Lady," a recent sound picture.

Greta Garbo as she is today, one of the most famous of movie stars.

John Gilbert and Miss Garbo. When Gilbert was the great Garbo's leading man there were many rumors of a romance.

This is the first installment of the life story of the famous movie star, written by a Swedish newspaperman who has known her for many years. He interviewed Miss Garbo upon her return to Sweden after she had won success in Hollywood.

By AKE LUNDBORG

CHAPTER I

PRESENT day inventions do not further a naive and confiding worship of the stars of the stage. Times change. One no longer, as formerly, judges of a prima donna's ability to charm by the number of hearts she has broken, or by the number of suitors vying in her drawing room, or even by the applause that follows her appearance on the stage—one estimates her ability to charm according to the amount of gold she reaps. A very simple, practical and up-to-date way of doing. No one knows how many men loved Nina de l'Enclos, or how many have wished to die for the sake of Mary Stuart; it is not likely that any one has counted the tears shed for the sake of Sarah Bernhardt, or the flowers sent to Duse's box. It is easier to tell the number of dollars earned by Mary Pickford. And this gives us a precise measure of the adoration that falls to her lot.

In our day Greta Garbo's name rings round the world. In Rome, Athens, New York, Rio and Montreal, in the heart of Berlin, in Bombay and Paris, as in Troas and Manila, in every place where there is a movie, Greta Garbo is known. The object of all this fame is not yet 24, and, only six years ago she was a practically unknown little Miss Anybody in her native town of Stockholm. One says the day of miracles is past—yet is not this miracle? The story of her triumphant progress on the screen is as much a romance as it is an obvious reality. The romance of her career is such as will inevitably stimulate popular imagination and make millions of young people dream of the possibilities of their own future. Who can be surprised that young and old alike follow everything that is written and said about her with eager interest in the hope of finding out more, and yet a little more about the beginning, and the present day trend, of her career. Surely it is not strange that people should stand in line and crane their necks in the hope of catching a glimpse of her when she on rare occasions appears in public.

"The story of my life," she asks, "We all do the same things, we go to school, sometimes we are naughty, sometimes we are good; we learn, we grow up the one very much as the other. Some of us are born in mansions, some of us in cottages, but what difference does this make in the long run? What does it matter in what kind of a house I was born or what occupation my parents had? They were my parents, my father and my mother just as your father and mother are your parents, and it was just this fact that was of significance to me, but I cannot see of what significance this is to others. We gradually find our aim in life and try to fulfill its mission. It is in this I think that the true significance of our life lies; therefore the result of our work should bear witness to who we are, what we will, and can achieve. And our work tells this best in its own language."

A GIRL of 24 who is world-renowned is under all circumstances an exceptional being, and all the more so for thinking and speaking as Greta Garbo does. She is quite unaffected. Humility, modesty, and reticence are her most obvious and natural attributes. The fact is she personally shrinks from attracting attention, though the irony of fate has forced her to the fore into the most mercurial of all limelights.

One thing it is entirely superfluous to ask her, namely, if she was glad to be back in Sweden again. But anything to make her talk, and when her face lights up in response to this appeal to her affection—for above everything else Greta Garbo loves her kin and her home town—one immediately gets the impression that the veiled, rather somnolent look of her eyes is familiar to us from her screen pictures, is not entirely natural to her.

When she at last, after an absence of several years in the great Western Hemisphere, had passed the little outlying town of Soderstam, in Sweden, she found her mother there to meet her. After the first embraces were over they were able to withdraw to a quiet corner. Greta impulsively exclaimed: "Now I almost think I am truly happy!"

And as the train rushed over the bridge that crosses the Malar and her eyes lighted once again on the old familiar, beautiful picture of the heart of Stockholm a glimmer with myriad lamps, she exclaimed: "Oh, mother, I just want to scream!" There was not the slightest indication of pose about these impulsive utterances of joy when her long-suppressed homesickness was at last stilled after an absence of several years spent in intense work out in the wide world.

As a matter of fact this attitude is very characteristic of Greta Garbo. For, as she herself says, "I was always rather given to melancholy. As far back as I can remember, even when I was quite a tiny little girl, I preferred being alone, and I just hate crowds. I used to creep into holes, corners and things and dream about the where and wherefore of all sorts of things. 'Go and play, now,' mother or father would perhaps say. But I did not want to, and I still think that it is essential for even quite small children to be left in peace to think and wonder about things, that this is more essential than playing and romping. Apart from skating and throwing snowballs, my best games were played by myself, when I sat and gave my imagination free rein."

The heavy toll that the harvest of death has taken among those nearest and dearest to her has no doubt contributed to Greta Garbo's unquestionable melancholy.

"THOUGH I am the youngest of us three children, they always looked upon me as if I were the oldest," she said. "In fact I can hardly remember every having felt young in the sense that other children do. I always had my own opinion and my sister and brother let me decide about anything that came up. But my moods were always very changeable. One moment I was happy and the next I was plunged in despair—then just nothing seemed to matter—not that I was ill-humored, they never accused me of that..."

"I must have been born with that, for none of my people has been on the stage. When I was a little girl I knew nothing of the stage, yet I used to paint... not on paper... but myself, and make up, just as I imagined that actresses did, and play theater with my brother and sister, just as other children do. But most of all I loved to pretend just by myself. My very first memory of the theater I believe goes back to my seventh or eighth year, when I saw the actors and actresses from the South Side Theater pass to and from their work across the courtyard of the theater building."

"I used to go there about 7 o'clock when the first actors began to come and stay until about half-past eight when the last would have disappeared behind the stage entrance. Then I would stand home afraid of being seen. I for having been out so late. But I felt I just had to stay until every single actor and actress had come. Yet the idea that I might get across to the theater by the main entrance from the market place never seemed to enter my head. My seat which seems to have been to stand behind the scenes and get a clearer idea of the stage from that angle. Sometimes I managed to creep inside the door where I could hear the actors and actresses chat as they got ready for the stage. Sometimes I could even faintly hear their voices from the stage when the play began. And here I also caught the first whiff of what to me has always been the most wonderful of all smells: that strange compound odor of greasepaint, powder and music."

the actors and the door-keeper had got so used to seeing her there that they almost took her presence as a matter of course.

BUT she was 12 years old before she ever saw the stage from the viewpoint of the usual spectator. And this, her first glimpse, was from a perch very near the ceiling.

To her the path across the old theater courtyard seemed to lead to fairyland. It beckoned and enticed her. Just beside the courtyard portal, the lift bridge juts out over the cliffs of the South Side and sometimes the little girl would stand there for a long time lost in reverie gazing at the bird's-eye view of Central Stockholm, a big, throbbing, noisy, smoky world, an unknown world that frightened her, the world that frightens her to this day.

CHAPTER II

"THE South Side!"

The couple 190 per cent Stockholm lives north of the river and when one hears him speak of the South Side one might think that he were talking of an almost unknown town that has nothing to do with the "real" capital. The South Side is to him nothing but a pretty and attractive silhouette with picturesque outlines towering high on the cliffs across the water. But he seldom knows anything of what is hidden behind the beautiful silhouette. It may, of course, happen that he makes a trip, by lift or taxi, up to the places of amusement round the Mosebacke Square which is advertised by local restaurant keepers as the Montmartre of Stockholm.

The complete indifference of the average Stockholmer as to what is hidden behind the silhouette of the South Side was shown in a characteristic way when a daily Stockholm paper that often prints details about Greta Garbo and her doings, stated that the place where she was born was "somewhere on the South Side."

Not that it matters much at which particular end of the South Side Greta Garbo first opened her blue eyes to the world. But if one strives to be correct in regard to the information given, it is best to be precise.

The happy event took place at Ricksgatan 21, and some day there will no doubt be a tablet on the wall of this building recording that it is the birthplace of Greta Garbo, who grew up and lived in this house until the magic of the movie world transformed her into Greta Garbo.

This house is a very ordinary building, five stories of small apartments like thousands of others all over Stockholm. The exterior is brown from peeling paint. The building looks rather dark and grimy, and in between two equally unattractive neighbors on a short street where the rest of the houses are still vacant.

"I never went to play on the terrace with the others," Greta Garbo says. "I was told by my mother and sister to stay away from there. I have always preferred to keep away from people."

When Greta was 4 years old she

the shy and rather backward little girl of childhood days. She was outwardly a "grown-up." At the age of 12 she had suddenly shot up and become as tall as she is now.

"Yes, I was big for my age," she says. "I have not grown a bit since my twelfth year, and I have to be grateful for that. For my outward appearance was a source of much embarrassment to me in my early teens—wherever I went people seemed to remark on my awkward size."

Her tallness did not, however, keep her from feeling very small and insignificant on the day when she went to ask for a job at the big department store of Fred V. Bergstrom. She did not get a position right away, someone just had a look at her and made a note of her name and address. So she felt quite downhearted whilst she walked the long way across Stockholm back to her home on the South Side. Who could know whether there would ever be an opening for her at the big store and if there were any chances of her name being looked up?

Naturally it was a very pleasant surprise when two days later the postman brought her a short note in which the firm requested her to report for work at the ladies' coat department on the following morning.

She had no more than found her bearings in this department when for some reason she was transferred to a place of good fortune for her. Advancement in a big store is as a rule slow, unless one is in possession of some very special qualifications. The beginner generally has to face a fairly long period of instruction and must pass several tests before being admitted to the rank and dignity of a saleslady with a checking book and an identification number of her own. Greta Gustafson was now on trial in the ladies' hat department and any amount of odd jobs were hers to perform.

THIS happened in September, 1928, and as Greta was born on the 18th of September, 1905, she was consequently barely 15 at the time.

One day the advertising manager entered the ladies' hats department. "Which hats are we to push in our spring catalogue?" he asked. "Please show me some suitable models for illustrating."

The lady in charge knew exactly what to suggest and in order to help the advertising manager get a more "living impression" she put the hats on the head of one of the young attendants. The girl thus chosen to pose for the advertising manager was Greta Gustafson.

Whether Greta "made" the hats or vice versa will never be definitely known. Anyhow, they suited each other well, the hats and the girl, so well indeed that the advertising manager sent for the cameraman. Thus the 1929 spring and summer catalogue of the firm can boast of having published the first pictures of the famous Greta showing off a number of the season's most popular hats. There can be no doubt that this was a help towards promotion for the young attendant, but it is also thinkable that it was not only an accident that the department head chose just Greta to do the posing. For the young girl had already shown a decided knack for waiting on customers. She seemed to be born with a gift for demonstrating the goods in a pleasing and convincing way and this had not gone unnoticed by the department head.

For this reason her chances of advancement were already the best. And now the hat-posing in a way had given her an extra chance, which soon was to lead to the next step in her unusual career.

TIME MONEY RATES AGAIN SHADED

any Rumors Are Factor in Price Movements—J. I. Case Closes Down 16 1-2 Points—U. S. Steel Up.

NEW YORK, May 27.—A new movement centering in the utility stocks was launched in today's stock market, but ran into unsettled market conditions reflecting news from the railways and closing prices were highly irregular.

The movement in the utilities was aided by a flurry of Wall Street rumors all unconfirmable, regarding early consummation of merger of the Consolidated Gas Corporation of New York, and the Niagara Hudson Power Corporation. It is rumored that a new holding company will be formed. Furthermore, announcement of a plan of Missouri-Kansas-Texas line to build a natural gas pipeline from Texas to Indiana stirred renewed enthusiasm for the utility stocks having nature of interests. People's Gas and Electric Power and Light were strong report that the United Gas Pipe line from Texas to Chicago had been completed as far as Springfield, Ill., and would be pushed through in quick time.

The market moved substantially higher during the morning, ran to considerable selling in the afternoon, with rails and farm implements and a few specialties notably weak, but rallied in spots in the final few minutes of trading, trading continued in comparative light volume. Total sales again aggregating about 2,250,000 shares.

44 April Rail Reports In.

The record made by the railways in April does not improve as the evidence continues to pour in. With roads reporting, aggregate net operating income for the month shows a drop of 33 per cent from April of 1929. The first 14 reports indicate a decline of less than 27 per cent. Some of the more important trunk lines such as Pennsylvania and Baltimore and Ohio showed relatively better results than average.

Credit continued in increasing supply, and time money rates were shaded further, although call money rates were shaded further, though call money held at 3 per cent. Time money and commercial paper rates are now the lowest in more than five years. The conditional Reserve members' banks, however, showed a gain of $76,000 in loans on securities, while makers' loans during the same period gained only $5,000,000. All loans declined $76,000,000.

People's Gas sold up about 5 1/2 to a new 1936 high, and electric power and light made a similar gain. American Telephone and Telegraph, American Power and Light were strong issues closing 2 or 3 points higher. Foster Wheeler and Worthington Pump, which manufacture equipment for the oil and gas industries, closed 5 and 4 points higher, respectively. U. S. Steel was 1 point, net.

J. I. Case closed off 16 1/2 points, International Harvester 3. Oliver 2. In the rails, Southern Railway Central, the St. Paul, New Haven and Erie, lost 1 or 2 points. American Tobacco, Kayser, American Rolling Mill, and Lamson were among other issues closing about 2 points.

Foreign exchanges were irregular. Sterling cables were unchanged at $4.85 15-16. The Canadian dollar and the Spanish peseta firm, while the Italian lira moderately after yesterday's rise. Wheat closed off about 1/2 cent, and corn fractionally. Cotton futures closed 5 cents lower to a new high.

Stock prices with other tables and market news will be found on pages 13C, 14C and 15C.
